Postal code needed

Out-of-town

subscribers

The new postmaster and his assistant have run into a problem that is delaying delivery of the Madoc Review.

Nearly all of the addresses are lacking box numbers and as these new employees are not yet familiar with the names of our subscribers, it is creating quite a problem in sorting the papers for the boxes. For this reason, it would be greatly appreciated if all of the subscribers in the village would phone or bring in the correct number for their mail before next week's namer is printed.

Also, all out-of-town papers must have the postal code on them by a certain date this fall, to meet postal regulations. All persons concerned are requested to inform the office of their codes as soon as

Madoc men leave for tour of western provinces

At last, she's got her rock!

By Carol Paranuik

Having her own big rock sitting in the lawn at her home has long been the desire of Miss Olive Ashe, former Clerk Treasurer of the Village of Madoc. Her dream came true this summer when the construction crew of Sam Danford and Sons was digging in her lawn during the installation of water and sewer services to Madawaska Street.

They dug up a very large boulder which turned out to be exactly what Miss Ashe was wanting for a lawn ornament. A nephew of hers, Bill Gates of Newcastle, New Brunswick, analized the rock when he was here on vacation. A son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gates of Livingston Avenue, Madoc, he is Chief Geologist of Heath Steel Mines at Newcastle.

Following is a description, by layers, of the rock. Top skim, clay, ropey looking lenses, grey, soft, recent accumulation of sedimentary material, includes mineral and rock fragments of both sedimentary and igneous rock. Middle two-thirds, migmatite - combination of sedimentary rock introduced by a granite rock. This results, due to heat and pressure, in large crystals and fragments of both minerals and assimilated country rock. The main minerals are: Quartz (large fragments to crystals classy white heat). Only crystals, glassy, white, hard); Orthoclase (medium to coarse grained crystals and fragments - orange to reddish in colour, this is a potash rich variety of feldspartermed orthoclase); Hornblends (medium termed orthoclase); Hornblends (medium grained, more crystalline than the preceding minerals, black in colour and medium hardness); Slate (small rounded grey, soft fragments, inclusions of host rock fragments). The lower one-third, red, medium grained quartzite. This is an altered or metamorphosed sandstone. The red colour is due to the iron content.

In general, this is an ice-transported boulder, weighing seven tons. It is composed of two chief rock types, Migmatite and Quartzite, showing sharp and horizontal contacts. The upper surface shows clay lenses and some slices of reddish green slate. Migmatite is a contact metamorphic effect due to the intrusion of a sedimentary bed by a molten granite which assimilated the sediments. Quartzite is a metamorphosed sandstone, carried out by increases in temperature and pressure without direct contact with an intrusive rock such as granite. Many of those who have seen the rock

This large boulder now adorns the lawn on the Madawaska Street home of Olive Ashe.

PROVINCIAL COURT

Variety of cases before Judge

Judge R. C. Jackson registered the following convictions in Provincial Court, Criminal Division, Madoc, on Tuesday, September 2nd, 1975.

A charge of Dangerous Driving against Thomas Peacock, age 17, Madoc, Ontario, was dismissed. The charge was laid on May 29th, 1975, as a result of erratic driving at C.H.S.S.

Peacock was convicted on a charge of Failing to Yield the Right of Way from a private drive and fined $25.00. This charge was laid as result of an accident with the Village truck on June 18th, 1975.

Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Symon moved from Madoc to Toronto where they intended to live for the next year. During the Second World War, Mr. Symon came to Madoc and since had operated several Fluorspar mines in the area, giving employment to many in the district. During this time he built two homes in the village and a summer home at Moira Lake. Their decision to leave Madoc was felt by many and both Mr. and Mrs. Symon were missed in the community.

Trailing by six runs, the Madoc Juniors staged a ninth inning rally to defeat Tweed in the third and final game of the first round Junior "C" playdowns. All three games had been played under the lights at Tweed, with Madoc winning the first 10 to 8, Tweed the second 13 to 3, and Madoc the final 10 to 9. The third game was played before a large crowd of fans with the last half being a noisy affair, when seven batters crossed the plate to take a 10 to 9 decision.

MADOC 473-4112 Are you really serving your community: By darner is as in

Have you ever wondered if you are serving your community? Are you doing things in your job or in your spare time that are for the betterment of the community or world? If you come to the probable conclusion that you could be of greater service, then by all means do not procrastinate - join an organization, club or planning committee which are accomplishing tasks to benefit other citizens. Perhaps, you could initiate some valuable services on your own, such as coaching a sports team, writing for a local paper, working for your church, volunteering your labour or talent for a local television program, supporting someone running for public office who will be of service to the community, and there are other areas where your efforts could be constructively employed.

where your efforts could be constructively employed.

There is no prouder boast than to be able to simply say, "I serve!". A person cannot receive any greater satisfaction than to see people living happier lives as a result of his actions. There isn't any need to wait for an emergency, a war or a depression to spark your motivation. The cries for assistance may not be loud in this area, but the need for help is quite apparent. Voluntary service graciously given may not receive much recognition in the noise and haste of today's society, but it is of tremendous worth to both the giver and the receiver.

You may say to yourself, "Why should I help that nasty old Mr. _____ down the street? What has he ever done for me?"

Well, perhaps he has never come to your aid and maybe he never will, but that does not give you the justification for not aiding him. You may not see yourself as your brother's keeper but you are obliged to be his helper. You should not expect your favours to be returned. Your payment will be the self-satisfaction in knowing that you have done something for another person and that person will not

ROUNDUP DAYS

Calgary stampede in miniature in this area

Anyone who has lived in hopes of seeing the Calgary Stampede but never quite made it, can now start planning to attend a reasonable facsimile of this famous rodeo right here in the Highlands of Hastings and Land O' Lakes area. Not to be left out of the ever-increasing eastern trend toward western style horsemanship, Tweed Legion, in collaboration with those hospitable operators of the Hayloft and Flinton Park, the Godins and Mundles, are presenting the First Annual Roundup Days on Saturday and Sunday, September 6th and 7th.

The actual rodeo shows under the production of former rodeo star and successful rancher, Mel Wakefield, who now operates out of Norwood area, will be held at 3:00 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday. Each day riders will compete in such exciting events as saddle brone riding, bare-back brone, byamha bull riding and ladies barrell racing.

Chairman Gord Stickwood has just announced the addition of a wild horse race to both Saturday's and Sunday's Roundup Days programs. Few rodeo shows in the east have had the opportunity to 'corral' such an event right out of the west.

Another additional feature has been a ladies open barrell race with $5.00 entry fee plus $50.00 added money. Gord has every indication that several lady riders in the area will be participating in this event. He emphasizes that entries for this attraction will be accepted right up until race time.

A super drawing card will be the antics of Dick McAllister, one of the top clowns in the rodeo circuits of North America, whose services Mel Wakefield has been attempting to acquire for years. Besides distracting the attention of the Bramha bulls from the hapless riders as they struggle to their feet and safety of the confines, this famous showman will present his own act during each day's program.

The chairman also wishes to publicize the fact that all children of pre-school age will be admitted free to the grounds, and also that the Madoc Firemen will be operating a large food conscession, augmented by several smaller snack bars on the grounds. For the entertainment of Bingo fans, the Tweed Branch of the Ladies Auxiliary will be set up with a sizeable Bingo game on a share-the-wealth prize basis.

Chairman Stickwood, along with the committee men, Ian Munro, Bill McMurty, Clint Lough, Cy Courneyea, Oscar Thurston, Barry Wallace, Hogey Alexander, Roger Guennette, Ray Woolfrey and

Burt Vance, are going all-out this time to bring a source of entertainment to this area which, hopefully, and with everyone's support, can be continued on an annual basis.

As the season is drawing to a close, As the season is drawing to a close, competition is reportedly reaching great heights as riders vie for points around the Ontario Rodeo Association's circuit. This sanctioned meet will be staged in a natural amphitheatre-arena surrounded by hills beside the beautiful Skootamatta River. Campers will be accommodated for $2.00 per night per campsite.

Chairman Stickwood is receiving concessions at $25.00 per day for food and refreshment booths, with space still available. The site provides a large area for free parking.

available. The site provides a large area for free parking.

There will be no advance sale of tickets, which will be sold at the gate at the following rate for each rodeo: over 65 years, $1.50; adults, $3.00; family, $10.00; under 12 years, $1.50.

The Hayloft, which is adjacent to the park area, will serve as a focal point by day, providing inside refreshment and food services. At 8:00 p.m. both nights, it will come alive to the music of The Friendships in the recently completed larger dance floor area of this popular night spot. As always, it will be couples only, at $5.00 per couple.

For the benefit of those who have never visited the Hayloft and Park area directional arrow-shaped signs will be strategically placed on all roads leading to the Tweed Legion Roundup.

Many attend retirement

73 guests attended the retirement banquet for Carl Stien on Saturday, August 16, 1975. Carl was township Clerk for Denbigh, Abinger and Ashby township for 31 years. The Master of Ceremonies was Ezra Ball, social hour was at 6 p.m. and the dinner hour was at 7 p.m. Grace was said by A. Baronson at the head table were Carl Stien, Warden Paul Burns and Mrs. Burns, Reeve Gordon Plotz and Mrs. Plotz, Dr. Nuttall M.L.A., Doug Alkenbreck M.P. and A. Baronson, guest speaker Arthur Duncan. Margaret E. Ackroyd did a Comedy song. In appreciation for Carl's service to the community he was presented with a Plaque, a calculator and a large ash tray by Doug Perry and Gordon Plotz. A more detailed report will appear at a later date.

Deloro appeal

A resumption of the appeal by Deloro Village against the Hastings County demand rate will be heard by the Ontario Municipal Board in Belleville on September 29 at 2 p.m., Marmora and Lake Townships Council has learned. "If Deloro does win the appeal the rest of the municipalities in this area will have to pay Imore," Reve Ritchie Wells commented.

Tis time for Trudeau's bull session

By Peter Ward

OTTAWA — (SF) — Late summer is the traditional ime for the Trudeau Cabinet to have the annual all-day ull session at Meach Lake, outside the Capital, in the latineau Hills.

bull session at Meach Lake, outside the Capital, in the Gatineau Hills.

It's a session when all ministers let down their hair and talk in broad terms about government directions, philosophies of government, and Liberal aims. Usually very little leaks from the Meach Lake session, but dribs and drabs begin appearing in statements from Cabinet ministers in early Fall.

This year at Meach Lake you can count on the Canadian economy receiving high priority, and you can expect the ministers to discuss at length possible Canadian policies concerning methods of achieving national aims for sovereignty in the Arctic, Pacific, and Atlantic coasts.

Prime Minister Trudeau was pretty definite in his early August press conference about the route Canada will follow on the offshore sovereignty issue. He said then that unilateral Canadian declaration of 200 miles jurisdiction was one of the options the Cabinet was considering, but that such a move would be taken only as a last resort.

Trudeau is convinced that Canada can achieve her aims through negotiations with the nations which traditionally fish in waters off Canadian coasts, and win agreement for Canadian claims at the Law of the Sea Conference. That route is the better one to follow, said Trudeau, because in some areas Canada wants more than jurisdiction over 200 miles of coastal waters.

The Trudeau government, though, is naive in assuming that once international agreement is obtained to Canadian claims, the need for policing our off-shore waters will diminish. Currently we are involved in a fisheries dispute with the Soviet Union, because the Soviets have taken twice as many fish as they are allowed under North Atlantic fishing agreements. It's a clear case of the Soviets violating an international agreement. What makes Trudeau think that the Soviets would be any more willing to abide by new international or bilateral agreements?

No, if we are going to make claims off shore, we're going to need equipment and inspection staff to enforce those claims. To think otherwise is foolish in the extreme.

This Celsius nonsense...

By BILL SMILEY

JUST clearing off my desk before heading to Saska-toon for a convention of weekly editors. Boy, am I a laxy bum! There must be 45 letters stacked here, unan-swered.

First of all, there are two piles of letters about the metric-Celsius nonsense. Those who agree with me form a much deeper pile. But, in fairness, those who disagree are much more literate. Does this have any significance?

disagree are much more literate. Does this have any significance?

The more literate letters, are, on the whole, much duller than the emotional ones. They treat me as a backward child, or a senile old man. I am neither.

Sample, from Wm. Gary Wharton, of Unionville, Ont. "There are things occouring (his spelling) in this world that from the sounds of your column you couldn't even begin to comprehend. Things are dealt with on a worldwide basis now and in doing so we need a common unit of measure, weight and volume." And so on.

Baloney! If that is so, why don't we have a common world-wide language, and a common unit of currency? We have neither. The argument holds no water.

On the other side, Farl F.

We have neither. The argument holds no water.

On the other side, Earl F. Gilchrist of Perth, Ont., is equally lacking in logic. "The metric system should never be introduced in Canada because it isn't Canadian. I want my children to grow up in a Canadian Canada not a Foreign Canada. Any Canadian that accepts the metric system isn't a Canadian."

Well now, I wouldn't co.

well now, I wouldn't go that far. That means that I could never enjoy English fish-and-chips, French fries, chicken chow mein, lasagna, southern fried chicken, and would be condemned for life to drinking Canadian — ugh! — wine. That way madness lies.

— wine. That way madness lies.

There's a letter from Mr. and Mrs. C. Knott of Rorketon, Man. "The guy that invented this stuff (Celsius and metrics) died so why doesn't it die with him as it sure doesn't make any sense ... We are only two out here, but I know there are many more in this area. Go to it Bill, send out petition or whatever it takes to stay as it was before."

A June editorial in the Waterloo Chronicle by Mike

Roy is headed Some Facts, Please. He then attacks my "half-baked ideas" about the metric system. He goes on to state a lot of facts about metric system. He goes on to state a lot of facts about the world's population, makes a desperate attempt to link these to the need for a metric system, and fails. I just take back my remark that letters urging a metric system are more literate than those against.

Here's a long, witty, oft bawdy letter from Harvey Malcolm, a farmer, municipal politician and news correspondent from Janetville for the Bowmanville Statesman. He wants metric. "Have you ever tried from scratch to figure out in the twinkling of an eye with a ratepayer breathing over your shoulder, how many lots 99' x 133' or such like can be found in an umpteen acre field?"

No, I haven't, Harvey. But I imagine it could be done with a calculator in about three minutes by a teenager of average intelligence. What's the big rush to find it out, anyway? Somebody only wants to make a buck. Let him wait.

B.C. Leaden of Rosedale, British Columbia, says that he often disagrees with me wholeheartedly, but on this, is on my side. In part, he says, speaking of politicians: "They take out.

wholeheartedly, but on this, is on my side. In part, he says, speaking of politicians: "They take our money and they screw it all up until you can't tell one bill from another, except for the good old deuce, and I suppose old deuce, and I suppose they'll soon get rid of that. They shove French down the English throats and English down the French and now they drop this Celsius bit on us poor long-suffering bastards. What in hell do we want that for? Celsius! Sounds more like a disease than a degree of temperature."

Sounds more like a disease than a degree of temperature."

Another brief letter from a Western couple, stamped envelope enclosed, says.: "Tell us what to do, write our M.P. or what, and we'll do it." Well, folks, that's a good place to start, but don't be surprised if you get a polite brush-off.

To try to sum up my own feelings would require another whole column, and would just touch on the subject. Firstly, I agree that metric is easier. Any idiot knows that.

But don't try to snow me with arguments that Canada's economic future depends on the metric system. Our economic future, like it or lump it, is tied to that of the U.S., which is not metric.

which is not metric.

The metric system should have been introduced 50 years ago. It wasn't. Now is not the time to do it, when inflation is making terrible ravages on our economy. ravages on our economy. Maybe it's 15 years too soon.

now.
Celsius is silly. I don't care Celsius is silly. I don't care what the temperature is in Outer Mongolia, or what system they use. I want to know whether it's 10 below or 80 above — Fahrenheit. The U.S. uses Fahrenheit. The radio and TV stations along the border use both. The newspapers report

British and continental temperatures in Fahrenheit.

peratures in Fahrenheit.

The changes to metric and Celsius seem to reflect that old Canadian tradition, which applies in everything from styles to education.

It goes something like this: "Let's drag our feet for a while, until everybody else has tried this thing out. Then we'll jump in and go the whole hog, whether the thing worked or not."

Heck with both of them. I only hope that when I get to Saskatoon, it's been a good summer (Fahrenheitally speaking) for wheat, and that those fish I don't catch in northern Saskatchewan will not be less than two metres in length.

Common sense often helps hay fever sufferers

by David Woods

The fact that hay fever is poorly named — it's not truly a fever, and hay isn't its main cause — is little consolation to the two or three million Canadians who suffer from it.

For them, hay fever means several weeks of the summer marred by itching and sneezing, streaming eyes and, often, difficulty in breathing.

The pollens, from ragweed, grass, trees and other plants, that cause all the trouble are harmless enough in themselves. What happens is that people who are allergic to one or more of these airborne irritants continue to experience hay fever symptoms until the allergen—the offending pollen—disappears until next year.

The best solution is to move away from whatever's causing the problem. But this isn't too practical since the various hay fever-causing plants pollinate in waves between March and June—and you may be allergic to more than one of them. Also, the pollens, which are most active in Ontario along the shore of the Great Lakes, can travel up to 400 miles.

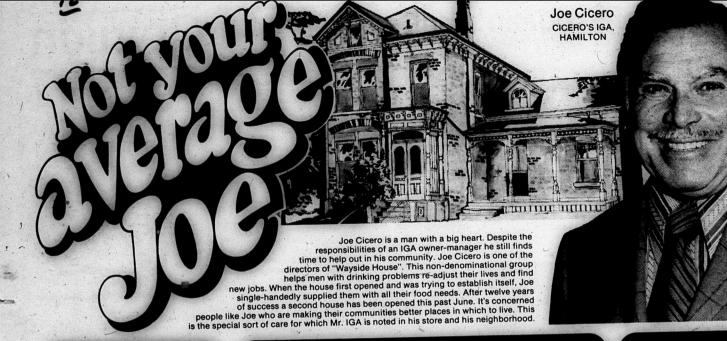

But there are, according to Ontario allergist Dr. William van Hoogenhuize, certain common sense precautions you can take.

If you're driving, he advises.

Ontario allergist Dr. William van Hoogenhuize, certain common sense precautions you can take. If you're driving, he advises, travel in the early morning or in the evening when it's cooler so that car windows can be kept shut; also, air conditioning — in the car or the home — affords some protection. Dr. van Hoogenhuize suggests, too, that hay fever sufferers stay out of fields because of the much higher concentrations of pollens there and that they avoid swimming, since the allergens tend to settle on the surface of water.

There is, of course, medical treatment available. But this, says van Hoogenhuize, is rather like trying to shut the barn door after the horse has bolted. The many varieties of antihistamines may be effective, he says, but the best course of action is prevention.

Marmora fair well attended

Although dark clouds threatened rain all day the Marmora Fall Fair on Labor Day was well attended.

Gate receipts almost equalled last year's, with 1,682 adults and 329 high ool students paying admission.

The fair was officially opened by William MacCrae. Warden of Hastings County. Greetings were brought by Jack Ellis. Hastings MP. Clarke Rollins, Hastings Hastings MP, Clarke Kollins, Hastings MPP, Reeve Jack Reynolds of Marmora Village and Reeve Ritchie Wells of Marmora and Lake Townships. President George McGregor welcomed everyone on behalf of the Marmora Agricultural

There were 116 exhibitors at the fair, secretary-treasurer Jim Bateman reported. The quality of exhibits was generally high and judges had many difficult choices to make.

The student art and school section was impressive in its variety and scope. The judges were pleased with the way the items were displayed and made their job easier, they commented. Much credit should go to Joe MacCauley for all the work he carried out in preparing the exhibits, as well as teaching arts, and crafts to Marmora Senior School and Sacred Heart Separate School students.

Shulman to head NDP?

Tories abandoning ship?

Grit agents report Tory files are being spirited out of Queen's Park. The suggestion is the government party is preparing to abandon ship. The Grits say that if black smoke is seen pouring from government incinerators September 19, it means the Conservatives haven't elected sitting out. Should the New Democrats be embarrassed at the polls and Stephen Lewis choose to step down as leader, don't be surprised to see Shulman chasing the laurel. "I'm not precluding anything in my future," he says.

Long-time member

Wally Downer lost the Dufferin-Simcoe Tory nomination and while the Tories have been in power 32 years, Downer has seen them come and go - he'd been there 38 years and was the only Conservative MPP in the House who ever sat in opposition. An Anglican priest with a distinguished record as an overseas padre during the Second World war, Wally even managed to get elected at home while slugging through Italy with the troops in 1943. He married a couple of guys in the Queen's Park press gallery and his touch with a poker deck left a few hard cases considering the positive virtues of prayer.

Social Credit sets Sept. 13 as date of provincial convention

Nancy Arnold, Social Credit candidate for the riding of Hastings-Peterborough, will deliver the welcoming remarks to the annual convention of the Ontario Social Credit League in the Wigwam Room of the Black Hawk Motor Hotel, 325 Front Street, North, Belleville, Saturday, September 13 at 10 a.m.

Party leader Sid Hamelin will introduce Socred candidates contesting the September 18th provincial election.

He is expected to be returned to the leadership post by acclamation.

A motion, by Floyd Hawley and seconded by Nancy Arnold, to be presented to the convention, will read "that the Ontario Social Credit League thank leader Sid Hamelin for his excellent leadership in the current campaign, and expresses confidence in his ability to lead us for another term."

A president, three vice-presidents, chief organizer, treasurer (chief financial officer) and three judicial officers will be elected. The annual convention of the Ontario Branch of the federal party will follow at 2

Ve can't knock the Davis Government

We can't praise it either. The law won't let us.

Through legislation, the Davis government has made sure that its employees can't criticize it.

We are Crown employees and civil servants. We live with severe restrictions on our civil rights.

Our political rights are almost non-existent.

We can't canvass for the candidate of our choice.

We can't even speak or write publicly on any issue that may be part of a political party's platform.

For instance, we can't talk about taxes, housing or education policies.

We can't take part in radio hot line shows, or put up a sign to support our favourite candidate.

All we ask is our basic civil liberties. The right to take part in the democratic process.

It costs taxpayers nothing.

We hope you will vote for civil rights . . . for everyone. We don't want our rights knocked about.

NDP car insurance costs people less

Low cost government auto insurance was the topic as Bob Thompson, NDP candidate in the riding of Hastings-Peterborough, addressed a gathering of campaign workers in the Marmora area on Thursday. "All three provinces having NDP governments have car insurance costs less than anywhere else in Canada," Mr. Thompson noted.

He gave specific examples of just how much cheaper auto insurance is in NDP provinces, using the cities of Winnipeg and Hamilton to show these differences. He chose these cities of Winnipeg and Hamilton to show these differences.
"In Hamilton, he said, a driver over 25 who uses his car, a 1974 Ford Galaxie, for all purposes, would pay approximately all purposes, would pay approximately $277 for his auto insurance. In Winnipeg, that same driver with the same car would pay only $198. for the same insurance

"Rural people would benefit from a government auto insurance plan as well as people from the cities said Mr. Thompson, as insurance plan as well as people from the cities said Mr. Thompson, as insurance costs for farm cars are considerably lower in rural Manitoba and rural Ontario. In rural Manitoba, a driver over 25 of a '73 Chevelle would pay only $112 for his insurance, whereas he would pay $160. for comparable insurance in rural Ontario."

Mr. Thompson noted that low cost government auto insurance was of even greater benefit to drivers under the age of 25. As an example, he stated that an 18-year-old single male driving a 1974 Ford Galaxie 500 would pay $709 for insurance in Hamilton, and only $213 in Winnipeg, a saving of $496. And it costs only $30 to add a male under 25 to existing coverage in Winnipeg, whereas in Toronto it would cost $296.

When asked how it was possible for a government to sell car insurance at rates so much cheaper than it is sold privately, he replied that public insurance is more efficient than private insurance.

Excessive commissions paid to agents, extensive advertising expenditures, duplication of services and court costs that result from conflicts between insurance companies, all contribute to the extremely high administrative costs of insurance in Ontario."

Special enumeration now underway

The special enumeration phase of the Ontario electoral process is under way and continues until September 10th. It is for qualified voters missed during the August 20-23 enumeration period, and those whose name is not on the publicly-posted list of voters in the area in which they live. Qualified voters not yet enumerated for the September 18th provincial election should contact their Returning Officer and special enumerators will be sent out to obtain the necessary information. Returning Officer telephone numbers may be obtained from Directory, Assistance — 411. To be qualified to vote in next month's general election, a person must be (by September 18th) at least 18 years old, a Canadian citizen or British subject, and a resident of Ontario for at least 12 months preceeding election day.

Residents of urban electoral districts not on the list will not be allowed to vote. Rural residents may vote if another qualified voter vouches for them.

Premier William Davis will carry his campaign into the area today, but he won't be visiting the Hastings-Peterborough riding.

riding.

Mr. Davis will take a whistle-stop train tour through the Lakeshore communities from Toronto to Belleville, with an evening speech in Belleville tonight.

PREMIER WILLIAM DAVIS receives a memento of his visit from Clarke T. Rollins, chairman of the St. Lawrence Parks Commission, as the premier visited Fort Henry in Kingston. The commission is responsible for the operation of Old Fort Henry, Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg as well as a complex of camping and recreation sites reaching from the Bay of Quinte to the Quebec Border.

Housing figures are almost unbelieveable!

The figures Stephen Lewis used to criticize a government housing policy were so damaging, NDP researchers were worried no one would believe them. So they checked the facts twice. Then the leader asked them to check again. But the results still showed the Ontario Housing leader asked them to check again. But the results still showed the Ontario Housing Action Program, developed two years ago to speed mainly middle-class housing onto the market, is little more than a facy name at the moment. How else would one describe a program which after the first third of the province's financial year has only met 14 per cent of its goals? And its announced targets are dubious too, Lewis argues, since they include categories which weren't supposed to be lumped into OHAP programs in the first place. In one of the main categories, housing for families earning between $14,500 and $20,000 a year, there have been only 262 starts so far, nine per cent of the goal of 9,000 units.

Lewis said not one government policy on housing can stand scrutiny as he continued his battle plan to build a case against the housing failures "brick by

So what would you do different? And the so what would you do different? Mr. Lewis says the difficulties arise from the definition of a student's "regular

"For married students, the residence definition is where the spouse resides. That's where they're enumerated and that's where they vote.

.ALLEY - In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Robert George Alley, who passed away Aug. 31, 1973. He left us quietly, His thoughts unknown, But left us a memory We are proud to own. So treasure him Lord In your garden of rest, when on earth. He was one of the best.
.Sadly missed and always remembered by mother, Philip and Brenda.

ALLEY - In loving memory of a dear brother and brother-in-law, Robert George Alley, who passed away Aug. 31, ugh his smile has gone forever, And his hand we cannot touch, Still we have so many memories, Of the one we loved so much. Sadly missed and always remembered by Brian and Mary.

ALLEY -- In loving memory of a dear George Alley, who passed away Aug. 31,

He wished no one a last farewell, Nor even a goodbye, He had gone before we knew it, And only God knows why:
His memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
God has him in His keeping, We have him in our hearts.

Sadly missed and always remembered by sister, Marilyn; brother-in-law, Chuck; nephew, Normie.

INMEMORIAMS

.WALKER - In loving memory of a dear brother and uncle, Robert Glenn, who passed away Sept. 7, 1974.

Dear Bob:
Your smiling way and pleasant face,
Are a pleasure to recall,
you had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet you,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp your hand in the better land,
Never to part again.
Ever loved, ever remembered by Paul,
Linda and Terri.

.WALKER - In loving memory of our dear and loved brother Robert Glenn Walker who died September 7, 1974. who died September 7, He left us quietly, His thoughts unknown, But left us a memory We are proud to own. So treasure him Lord, In your garden of rest, For when on earth, He was one of the best.
.Sadly missed and ever remembered by brothers, Kenny Walker and James WALKER - In loving memory of dear son, Robert Glenn Walker, who died September 7, 1974. September 7, 1974.

One year ago since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away,
But though his smile has gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch,
We still have a lot of memories,

And his hand we cannot roucn,
We still have a lot of memories,
Of the one we loved so much,
He wished no one a last farewell,
Not even a goodbye,
He was gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why,
Your loving memory we'll always keep,
God has him in his keeping,
We have him in our hearts.
Sadly missed but fondly remembered by Mom and Dad and nephew, Lawrence.

.WALKER - In loving memory of a dear brother, Robert (Bob) Glenn, who passed away Sept. 7th, 1974. away Sept. 7th, 1974.
The blow was great the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near,
And only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell,
More each day we miss you, Bob,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the careary. But they little know the sorrow,
That lives within our hearts concealed.
Always remembered by John, Sharon and Allan.

.WALKER - In loving memory of Bob, who died suddenly September 7, 1974. Gone but not forgotten. " .Nina and Gordon Chapman.

BY CATHY POST FIELD

Did Roy Scheider of "Jaws" do his own stuntwork with the sharks? Also, didn't he appear in "The French Connection?" L. Alsop, Gallup, N. Mex.

Yes to both. In fact, he got an Oscar nomination as supporting actor for playing Gene Hackman's sidekick in "Connection." Scheider says: "I did my own stunt work not because I wanted to — hell, I'm no hero — but we were working on a boat in tight spaces and really since they were showing the terror in our faces there was no way a stuntman could have done those closeups."

How are things going between Glenn Ford and Cynthia Hayward. Is the romance holding up? Also, how many films has Ford made? Beverly Caro, New Orleans, La.

Glenn and Cynthia are still so cosy as can be that she will have a role in his upcoming TV series "Holvak" (a title they should change since so obviously they want to trade on the popular "Kojak"). Glenn has made 167 films, more than any other Hollywood star.

Whatever happened to Katherine DuRoss, the lady who was with Henry Ford II when he was arrested on that driving violation in California? T. M., Sanford, Fla.

Ms. DuRoss says she has no intention of capitalizing on the incident and will not become another Fanne Foxe. The raven-haired mother of two teen-agers recently open-ed L'Esprit, Detroit's only downtown discotheque. Edsel and wife Cynthia Ford attended the club's debut but

It must be difficult to be a beef producer these days.
On one hand, the provincial government's cow-calf stabilization program appears attractive. On the other hand, the Ontario Beef Improvement Association's secretary-manager is screaming at farmers to beware of subsidies of any kind.

Throughout all this, the politicians are making all kinds of promises as the Ontario election campaign gets into gear.
Bob Nixon and his Liberals and Stephen Lewis and his New Democrats are making some headway, especially the NDP with that party's farm program.

The Conservatives, meanwhile, are standing on their record of having some of the best farm legislation in Canada or, perhaps, in the world. Unfortunately, since Bill Stewart, Ontario's agricultural minister, decided to retire from politics because of his recent heart attack, the PCs appear to be a little rudderless in rural policies at the moment.

moment.

Mr. Stewart can hardly make any promises now since he won't be around to fulfil them and no one knows who his successor will be.

The beef farmers of Ontario have been notoriously independent over the years, Although legislation for a marketing board is available, the beef improvement association has been wary of any idea which would see them lose some of this independence.

of this independence.

Graeme Hedley, a spokesman for the association, has been quoted many times as saying that subsidies can—and usually do—hurt the farmer eventually. He has a great deal of knowledge and a great many statistics to back up his claims, too. He sees the beef industry here as part of the international picture, especially as a North American market.

Market.

Canadian beef men, he maintains, could cut their own throats by accepting large subsidies because American legislation now allows the Yanks to complain if a product is being imported there from a country which is subsidizing production of the commodity. This can escalate into a border-blocking move which could prevent Canadian cattle being sold across the line.

And Canadian producers need the American market more than the American market needs them, he claims. He's probably right. More important, he feels the philosophy of accepting government subsidies and handouts is a dangerous philosophy, dangerous to the social structure of Canada and farmers.

Cattlemen, he maintains, must simply learn to live with the cycle of high-low-prices and not go to the governments with hats in hand asking to be bailed out.

with hats in hand asking to be bailed out.

Graeme Hedley is an articulate, intelligent man. He predicts that the so-called exotic breeds from Europe have had their heyday and the smaller, stockier British breeds are the best because they fatten easier and better on forage. Feed grain, he says, will remain at exorbitantly high levels for at least four or five years and forage-fed cattle will be much cheaper to produce.

At the same time as Mr. Hedley was included.

At the same time as Mr. Hedley was imploring beefmen. not to count on government subsidies, the major cow-calf producers in Ontario were knocking each other over trying to register for the province's beef calf stabilization program. In the Grey-Bruce area, the leading beef producing counties in the province, more than 90 per cent of the cow-calf men were expected to sign for the program.

Some producers have held back because they do not yet understand the complicated pricing system. Not being a beef producer, I haven't studied it but agricultural representatives tell me it is relatively simple.

sentatives tell me it is relatively simple.

If prices fall below 40 cents a pound, the farmer registered in the program will end up with $33.25 for each cow. The $33.25 comes about by subtracting the first 40 cents a pound difference between the floor price and the actual price paid. Another 15 per cent is deducted because Ontario's guessperts calculate a cow herd will yield an 85 per cent calf drop: That's $38.25. Then, deduct $5 per cow as a registration fee and you get $33.25.

Understand? It takes a little time when you are as bad a mathematician as I am.

However, the producers are going for it in a big way in spite of Mr. Hedley's warnings.

Exercise caution in energy-saving

Sidney Handleman, Ontario's Consumer Minister, today warned Ontario home owners to exercise caution in their energy-saving efforts this winter. The Minister's comments came as he drew attention to some of the suggestions made in '100 Ways to Save Energy & Money in the Home', a booklet produced by the federal Department of Energy, Mines & Resources.

"My Ministry's Energy Safety Branch has gone over this booklet very carefully, and they feel that although it is in many ways a very useful publication, it makes some suggestions which are potentially dangerous," the Minister said. "We feel that there is no way that an untrained person should perform some of the adjustments to furnaces and other home appliances as '100 Ways to Save Energy' suggests. Similarly, we feel that the booklet does not place sufficient emphasis on the need for adequate ventilation for fuel-burning appliances."

"For example, on page 24 of '100 Ways to Save Energy', the home owner is advised to adjust the furnace burner air shutter, and on page 29, the owner is told to adjust the furnace burner air setting." Mr. Handleman said. "The Energy Safety Branch staff feel very strongly that, unless you know exactly what you are doing, you should leave these sitting alone. These adjustments should be made only by qualified service personnel."

Mr. Handlman explained that improper air supply adjustment, as well as inadequate ventilation, can cause the appliance flame to produce deadly quantities of carbon monexide, an odourless, colourless, poisonous gas.

"Adequate ventilation is extremely important," the Minister said. "Last winter we had a number of cases in the province where people were poisoned by carbon monoxide because they had sealed their homes too tightly against drafts."

Mr. Handleman said the '100 Ways to Save Energy' also suggested that owners read their furnace of appliance manuals before performing any of the suggested adjustments. "We think that this is a little unrealistic," he said, "since in many homes, particularly older ones, the owners' manual was lost or thrown away years ago. I don't think we can assume that everyone keeps their furnace manual available for ready reference."

"We are particularly concerned with the suggestions in this booklet because over 200,000 of them have been distributed in Ontario. Because it is a government

"The federal department of Energy, Mines & Resources has agreed to make changes in future printings of this booklet, but we are concerned about the problems that the 200,000 copies in Ontario could cause this winter,'' Mr. Handleman added.

concluded. "The Ontario Government is vitally concerned about energy conservation. The Energy Management Program we have set up in Ontario aims to reduce the total demand for energy in all sectors of our economy over the next decade, and it is obvious that substantial energy saving can be realized in the home."

THE SELF-HELP HOME PLAN

Low Cost - No Down Payment Housing From Rollins Lumber!

"What Makes Rollins Lumber's Self-Help Plan Better For Me Right Now?"

There are two main ingredients required by anyone who wants to build a home — money and land. With Rollins Lumber's Self-Help plan you may provide your own lot or choose one of our approved building lots. Once you decide on the location, there's nothing to stop you from owning your own home.

Start with No Down Payment and Rollins Lumber will help you arrange a mortgage, for which money is now available. It's important to make your decision to build now — because mortgage money may tend to tighten up again in the near future.

The Self-Help people have attempted to remove the red tape from home building making it easier as well as less costly. By reducing over-all costs your home becomes eligible for the $500. federal grant for first time home buyers. Self-Help homes also qualify for the $1500. Provincial Grants. By building now with the Self-Help home plan, you can capitalize on these grants, easy to obtain mortgage money and of course the security of owning your own home. Check it out today and look over our selection of ready-to-build designs.

EGGS-ACT IDENTIFICATION

The use of fertilized eggs is one of the tools that veterinary virologists use to diagnose virus problems in livestock and poultry. Why use eggs? The main reason is that viruses won't grow on artificial media. They will reproduce only in living cells like the ones present in fertilized eggs.

To isolate the virus, technicians in a virology laboratory start with a tissue sample from one of the Veterinary Services Branch diagnostic laboratories. The sample is ground carefully, diluted with a special medium containing antibiotics to prevent bacterial growth, then passed through filters so fine that only the virus can pass. This filtered material containing the virus is then injected into susceptible fertilized eggs from a flock that has been determined to be disease-free.

As the embryo develops, veterinary virologists are able to identify the suspected virus and suggest proper control or treatment, which saves producers time and money with a relatively fast and accurate diagnosis.

whice-weekly Picton Gazette and the new weekly newspaper, the Amherst Heritage, which debuts today. Involved in the sale are the Marmora Herald, Madoc Review, Hastings Star, Norwood Register and Havelock Citizen. "I have been interested in this area for a long time, and am most happy that Mr. Mullan has finally decided to sell to our organization," Mr. Cembal said. "The Mullans have done a tremendous job in improving community journalism in this area, and the fact that the Marmora Herald has won the awards as the best all-around quality weekly newspaper in Canada (in its class) two years in a row shows their efforts are well recognized by their peers.

Mr. Mullan said he knows Mr. Cembal and his associates will preserve the local autonomy as much as possible, and will do their best to please subscribers and advertisers alike.

"Mr. Cembal plans no significant changes,", Mr. Mullan noted, "and with our present staff being retained, I'm sure people will hardly realize there's been a

Mr. Mullan purchased the Marmora Herald from Jack Golden in late 1972, and took over January 1, 1973. He had previously worked for the Thomson Newspaper Company for 1614 years, being employed as managing editor of The Daily Mercury, in Guelph, before moving to Marmora.

The Norwood Register was acquired from the estate of the late Jack Cheevers at the same time the Herald was purchased, and the Hastings Star was started January 17,

The Mullan firm then established weekly The Mullan tirm then established weekly newspapers in the south, the Brighton Independent and Colborne Citizen, but sold them in August, of 1974, to Simon and Stasha Conolly, who still operate them.

The Madoc Review was acquired from Maurice Goulah in July of 1974, and the Havelock Citizen was established in July of 1975.

Unveil master plans Moira River Authority

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Moira River Conservation Authority in August, much of the time was devoted to a presentation by D. A. Marucelj and Nancy Bogart of the master plans and Nancy Bogart of the master plans and estimated costs of long-term development of seven of the Authority's Conservation Areas, namely, Vanderwater, O'Hara, Sidney, Plainfield, Ackerman and Price. Included in the more important recommendations were: O'Hara Mill - the mendations were: O'Hara Mill - the development of the exterior road system to provide access to areas of proposed development including a pioneer village isolated from the present pioneer homestead and sawmill. The log school would be moved to the pioneer village. A 100 campsite area would be developed north of the pond. The estimated cost of the four stage program is $402,950, exclusive of a proposed Museum Centre. tock) Conservation Area: two access roads are proposed, one from Victoria Street and the other from St. Lawrence Street. The area would be used primarily for camping, day-use and a proposed Senior Citizens recreation centre. The sale of serviced lots on both sides of Whytock Street was suggested to assist in the financing of development costs of the area. The estimated cost of the four stage program is $3364,850.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee on September 4th, there was a lengthy discussion concerning the master plans for several Conservation Areas. Several members objected to proposed establish-ment of camping at the O'Hara Mill and Price Conservation Areas. Fears were and Price Conservation Areas.

expressed that the proposed recreation facilities at the O'Hara Mill could result in permanent damage to the ecological environment. It was pointed out by Mr. D. A. Marucelj (representative of Totten, Sims, Hubicki Associates) that all the proposed developments were propo-only and need not necessarily only and need not necessarily be implemented.

After the discussion, it was moved by D. Harvey, seconded by J. Spry, that the master plans for the Vanderwater, O'Hara, Price, Ackerman, Madoc, Plainfield and Sidney Conservation Areas be approved and that, the Consultants be authorized to proceed with the preparation and printing of the final detailed report.

It was recommended that the proposal to establish camping at the O'Hara Mill and Price Conservation Areas not be implemented in the forseeable future.

Use hot water wisely Save energy...Save money

Apart from home heating, a family usually consumes the most energy in producing hot water.

Here are just a few small things you can do, that can add up to a considerable energy saving. Turn off hot water taps so they don't drip, fill clothes washers to match the size of the load, wait until you have a full load before using a dishwasher and remember showers usually require less hot water than baths. Try not to use more hot water than you need.

The Cascade electric water heater will give you a dependable supply of hot water, but it's up to you to use it wisely.

Alarming increase in water pollution

An alarming increase in pollution has shown up in samples taken during the month of August by the Crowe Lake Property Owners Association in Crowe Lake, Crowe River and Beaver Creek.

A comparison of the average reading of 50 samples taken in 1974 against an average of 51 samples taken this year show that faccal organisms increased from less than three per 100 millilitres to over 14 per 100 ml.

It might be though that this increase is due to the abnormally low water this year but the argument does not hold true when it is realized that the total coliform organism readings in the same samples has actually decreased by more than 12 per 100 ml.

Faecal organisms indicate human or animal wastes, probably from septic systems that aren't adequate or working properly.

A booklet entitled "Your Drinking Water", published by the ministry of health, has this to say about faecal colforms: Testing is always carried out to see if the "black sheep" of the family are present. These are faecal coliforms. They usually outnumber all other coliform types in human and animal intestines by a ratio of more than 500 to 1.

of more than 500 to 1.

The article goes on to say "Outside the body, faecal coliforms die off more quickly than other coliform types. It is reasonable to deduce two things from this. If the tests show that most of the coliforms present are faecal coliforms, and their number is high, then there is pollution - probably nearby, probably recent and relatively dangerous. A' smaller, but still high proportion, of faecal coliforms may indicate nearby pollution but with actual counts reduced by dilution, from some source."

A smaller, but still high proportion, or faecal coliforms may indicate nearby pollution but with actual counts reduced by dilution, from some source."

Detailed information regarding sample sites, actual reading counts as compared to 1974 will be mailed to each member of the Crowe Lake Property Owners Association, along with other pertinent information about re-stocking, pollution etc. of the lake, river and Beaver Creek.

The results of the tests, taken at various-

The results of the tests, taken at various places make shocking news for the people of this area.

At Aunger's Spring, on Highway 7, the total coliform was 4 and faecal 9. In other words it is unfit for drinking.

The well at Booster Park was also unfit for drinking when the test was taken there.

The ministry of the environment has also taken a sample there but the report has not yet been received.

Most alarming is the results of the test taken at Legion Park where Marmora children have been swimming all summer and probably explains why a number of children developed skin problems and sore ears during the season. The count there was: total coliform 50, faecal 16.

Deer River, above Crowe Lake and Cordova Road, showed a total coliform count of 22 and a faecal count of 2.

The highest rate of all, total coliform 80 and faecal 80, was found to be at Plato Creek. All the affluent from Deer Lake, Round Lake, Belmont Lake and Havelock village's sewer system is dumped into Crowe Lake by way of Plato Creek before any pollution is added from the surrounding cottages or natural wastes.

Association president Ray Black commented: "Mother Nature cannot cope with a situation like this without the help of the ministry of the environment, the department and each and everyone interested in preserving Crowe Lake. The Property Owners Association is doing its share by requesting the ministry of the environment to carry out a survey of the lake to pinpoint the areas of pollution.

"It is disturbing to realise that when the Marmoraton Mining Company closes down the tourist industry will be the one and only and if corrective steps are not taken now, it may be too late for even that."

$390 in lottery tickets lost, but....

A Deloro man is grateful to a Toronto girl for returning his lost purse containing $390 worth of lottery tickets.

Ray Brown stopped to visit Stub Althouse on the Blairton road one night recently and as he was leaving placed his purse on the top of the car while he loaded his car with some articles.

He didn't realize his loss until he got to Stan's Mobile Homes on Highway 7 and immediately returned to the Althouse home. He remembered that he had put the purse on the top ot the car and began a search. Some friends helped him cover the sides of the highway the next day but it wasn't until two days had passed that he was notified by police in Havelock that his purse had been turned in.

With only a description to go on Mr. Brown tracked down the identity of the girl who found the purse. She was staying at the Blairton Tent and Trailer Park. Mr.

Brown has put her name in for a share of an Olympic Lottery ticket.

Do we want industry in Marmora & Madoc?

Ofcourse we do!

Everyone knows that industrial development helps a community in many ways. For one thing, it means jobs - jobs our residents don't have to leave home to get.

For another, it means new assessment and tax dollars that will help keep our municipal taxes down.

It also means increased business within the community and area.

Now that we have new sewer installation in Marmora, and are about to finish the job in Madoc, we should be in a prime position to attract industrial development!

But will the Davis Gov't let us?

The Davis Gov't has already announced a major industrial land assembly project in the Edwardsburg Township area of South-Eastern Ontario - and if the provincial government is going to be pushing potential industry down that way, will there be anything left for us?

Dave Hobson and the Liberal Party are dedicated to helping small communities. Instead of planning big new cities, or pushing all the development along the Highway 401 corridor, Dave Hobson and the Liberals will work with local councils to see what can be done to help communities like Madoc, Marmora, Deloro and adjoining areas develop their potential, according to local wants and needs.

September 18, vote for a stronger home town community.

Two very old anchors recovered

Link with the past uncovered in lake

A link with Marmora's past came to light this summer with the location and recovery of two large very old anchors from Crowe Lake by a young Toronto man.

Paul Allerillies spotted the two anchors while scuba diving and with the help of friends in four boats, raised them from the bottom. They have been painted and are now on display in front of his parents' trailer-campsite at Baywlew Park on the west shore of Crowe Lake.

The first anchor recovered is believed to weigh in the neighbourhood of 300 pounds and was found in 30 feet of water. The and was found in 30 feet of water. The second one is smaller, running about 200 pounds and was lodged in rock when Mr. Allelleries spotted it.

It is believed the anchors may be anywhere from 50 to 100 years old.

Logging was one of the principal industries of the Marmora area at that industries of the Marmora area at that time and it quite possible the anchors were lost as the log booms were moved along the channel of the lake enroute to Pearce's sawmill below the present Marmora dam. Log drives were also made on Beaver Creek, the last one being carried out in the spring of 1920. Mr. Allerillies was not available on the weekend to give further information but Otto Lingertat, owner of the Bayview Tent and Trailer Park, showed a photograper and reporter to the location of the anchors There are over 100 campsites availabe at the park which overlooks Blairton Bay on one side and Crowe Lake on the other.

The park is being developed into one of the finest tourist sites in this area but Mr. Lingertat, who does most of the work himself, is careful about keeping the park in as natural a state as possible

Tweed district of the OMNR is presently in the process of collecting red pine and red spruce cones. # Lewis won't get many votes on this, but .....

"The morality that pollution is criminal only after legal conviction is the morality that causes pollution." That devastating indictment of our industrial system come from a book entitled Minamata.

from a book entitled Minamata. It's the tragic story of mercury poisoning in the Japanese city, a chronicle of agony and despair, gnarled limbs, uncontrolled shouting, terrible pain, tremedous courage and death.

It is a story which in a few years may be written about two Indian reservations near here. Grassy Narrows and White Dog - home for about 1,000 Ojibway Indians. It's a story that NDPleader Stephen Lewis talked about with a group of Indian leaders, one of federal and provincial neglect, racism and the perversities of the indiantal system. industrial system

It won't win many votes for Lewis, it will only cause him pain.

In fact, in many ridings, it is political suicide to side with Indiansno matter what the cause

Minamata is where mercury poisoning from the Chisso corporation, a large chemical plant, first became known. It was noticed in the early 1950s, when noticed in the early 1950s, was noticed in the early 1950s, when people suffered tingling limbs and lips, then numbness, slurred speech, uncon-trolled motor functions and often death. People knew the pain but not the reasons

It was eventually recognized as methyl mercury poisoning from industrial waste and it, reached people through, contam-inated fish. So far. 10,000 people have been affected. 103 have died and seven others verified as permanently damaged. There is no cure is no cure The company has paid $80 million in compensation to 800 victims but there are still some 2,000 cases pending.

Despite the lessons of Minamata, there is evidence we are ignoring the problem here.

White Dog Chief Roy McDonald talked about it recently.

He spoke slowly in a hushed voice, a proud man unable to hide the hurt showing in his eyes. He spoke of government neglect, of studies which proved symptoms in his people, of broken promises, of shattered dreams.

He is not a man given to overstatement When the province said his people could fish in certain lakes but changed its mind after tourist operators complained. Mc+ Donald told his people to stop fishing

"We did not want to make bad friends," e said. "We simply want to fish. We

Many of his people also have to work as guides in those tourist camps, their only source of steady income. When the International Joint Commission opens its giant dams and floods his people's rice paddies, he winces, but what

With mercury in the fish, his people turn more to rice. When the rice is flooded, they go back to mercury-laden fish.
In 1970 the province banned commercial fishing in the area and told Dryden Chemicals Ltd., a paper mill, to stop dumping mercury waste into the water. Last March Environment Minister Bill Newman said mercury levels have been reduced but are still not acceptable.

are in fact, wildly above safe levels.

It happens that Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier is Roy McDonald's MPP. After Bill Newman welcomed a team of Japanese scientists to this area and they found evidence of mercury poisoning on the reservation, Bernier called them a bunch of travelling troubadors.

troubadors.
Lewis called that "the most cynical remark I ever heard a politician make."
The health ministry says you cannot eat these fish but natural resources gives licences to tourist operators for sport fishing and guides and tourists eat the fish all the time.

Ontario promised McDonald they'd fly uncontaminated fish in from the outside. They flew in one day's supply for only some of his people.

Ontario promised McDonald boats to fish with but the three boats were delivered and the Indians were kicked out of the lakes because tourist operators objected. Ontario promised McDonald freezers to stock fish in, and a building to house the freezers. They built a foundation and have not delivered the freezers.

"All these bad things come to us from outside," McDonald said. "My grandfather used to say the Indian people had the best food, the best of life but then development came and you could see the change...before that, people were happy. They could fish, they could hunt, they were happy, now they are not so happy."

Lewis, if he were premier, would test all the Indians here for mercury poisoning the Indians here for mercury poisoning and press Dryden chemicals for compensation, but Lewis for all his intense humanity, knows what his chances are. It is a problem that will go unnoticed until people start to die and we suddenly have our own Minamata. It is a moral issue in a political battle where morality does not count for a hell of a lot.

Provincial ELECTION - '75

Nixon strides bravely into baby show

On a televised interview the Liberal chief had challenged the personal integrity of Premier William Davis and earned an angry response from the Premier.

Nixon refused to back off after Davis said he didn't mind people questioning his policies or his competence but "this sort of thing is just not fair and I cannot allow it to go unchallenged."

So while Davis was busy preparing a "fairly strongly worded statement." Nixon was out on the back lawn of his St. George farm, holding forth, once again, to reporters and party workers on the subject of integrity. "I'm not backing off from any of that stuff at all." he said. "The problem is, my principal opposition wants to construe it that I'm saying they're corrupt."

Nixon was feeling confident as he also unveiled his plans for getting affordable houses built in Ontario, should he be elected premier.

Mainly, he wants to "do away with the Ontario Housing Corporation and absorb it Mainly, he wants to "do away with the Ontario Housing Corporation and absorb it into the ministry of housing. If I am premier. I will treat the nousing protein as my own. It can't be shuffled off to a ministry or agency.'

He said a Liberal government would re-allocate funds now intended for landbanking to instead service building lots. According to ministry of housing figures which he used to bolster his arguments, the $72 million earmarked for land assembly this year would service up to 30,000 building lots.

Nixon said he wants to come up with an official provincial plan and, in addition, stop plans now on the books to develop new townsites such as Cedarwood, in Pickering township near the site of the proposed new airport, encouraging instead move expansion around existing municipalities, preferably in the north.

He also said a Liberal government would revise the municipal financing system to replace a portion of the existing provincial grants to municipalities with an equal portion of the province's income tax revenues—"not a massive infusion of new ollars but free of the usual constraints".

It was like coming home -- the smell of hot dogs, the baby contest, the friendly smiles, the homespun scene of Nixon jumping up to conduct and ham it up with the Ayr-Paris band.

A day on which Robert Nixon could take it a little easier than usual with a clear

Bill Davis, clean up your Acts

The Davis government has cleaned up a few things in its time. Take, for example, conflict of interest.

Mr. Davis came down hard on some of his cabinet ministers who were exposed as having conflicts of interest. Now we have guidelines to steer our politicians.

Or there was the case of corporate contributions to election campaigns. Again, Mr. Davis responded. He cleaned up that legislation.

But the government has sadly neglected the rights of 60,000 citizens. It has forgotten its own employees.

Crown employees and civil servants have practically no political rights.

The Public Service Act and the Crown Employees Collective Bargaining Act spell this out clearly.

We can't canvass on behalf of a candidate.

In fact, we can't even speak or write publicly on any topic that is part of any party's election platform.

This is a denial of our basic democratic rights.

To change this costs taxpayers nothing.

We have asked Mr. Davis to clean up these two acts.

He has refused.

We hope you will vote for democratic justice... for everyone. These are two hard acts to swallow.

Whose rights go next?

BONTER - In loving memory of John Bryson, who passed away September 10, 1969. He shall not grow old as we that are left grow old; He shall not grow old as we that are left grow old; ge shall not weary him, nor the years

At the going down of the sun, and in the morning,

We will remember him.
Lovingly remembered by grandmother, aunts and uncles.

BONTER - In loving memory of Bryson who left us suddenly on September 10,

Many a day his name is spoken,
And many an hour he is in our thoughts,
A link in our family chain is broken,
He has gone from our home, but not from our hearts.
Ever remembered by dad, mother, sisters and brothers.

KENNEDY - In loving memory of a dear father, Robert E. Kennedy, who passed away September 7, 1974.
The blow was great, the shock severe, We little thought the end was near, And only those who have lost can tell, The pain of parting without farewell. More each day we miss you, father, Friends may think the wound is healed, But they little know the sorrow That lies within our hearts concealed.
Missed and always remembered for his .Missed and always remembered for his son, Murney, and daughter-in-law, Lula.

MOFFATT - In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Gordon, who passed away September 9, 1968. He toiled so hard for those he loved, He said goodbye to none,
His spirit flew before we knew,
His work on earth was done.
God's Golden Gate stood open
He saw Dad needed rest,
His garden must be beautiful,
He only takes the best. .Sadly missed by daughter Jean, son-in-Law Frank and family.

WALKER - In loving memory of Robert Glenn Walker who passed away September 7, 1974.
He is gone but not forgotten, And, as dawns another year, In our lonely hours of thinking, Thoughts of him are always near. Days of sadness will come o'er us, Many think the wound is healed, But they little know the sorrow, That lies in the heart concealed. Always remembered by fiancee Sharon and her parents, Doug & Marg Chapman.

Davis opens attack on Civil Service

Ontario Premier William Davis launched a strong attack on the Civil Service Association of Ontario for running a "false and misleading" advertising campaign against his government.

Calling it "an issue that will be settled September 18," Davis refused to back down from the government's position that Ontario's 70,000 civil servants should not be given the right to strike or to participate in partisan politics.

"We are not going to yield to pressure," Davis told about 350 party supporters.

"No amount of media advertising and no amount of misrepresentation in advertising will force the Government of Ontario to retreat from the sound and basic principles of the Public Service Act."

Civil servants have been complaining because they are not allowed to campaign for a candidate, make a political speech or even put a candidate's sign on their front lawn.

A CSAO advertisement claiming the

A CSAO advertisement claiming the Davis government passed laws prohibiting civil service electioneering is untrue.

Davis said. He said that the Public Service Act came into effect in 1963 and he has not amended it.

A similar law has been on the books since 1897.

He said the law is "intended to prevent the civil service from the ravages of the spoils system, to eliminate patronage and to establish a public service which the public would recognize and respect as public would recognize and respect as impartial and non-partisan."

"This is the civil service we have in the province today and so long as Ontario has a Davis government, it will remain that way," he said.

The government's stand is opposed by both opposition parties. The Premier has met angry civil servants all along the campaign trail.

Davis also re-stated his stand against the Davis also re-stated his stand against the CSAO demand for the right to strike, saying he doesn't believe the union should have "the ultimate right and power to shut down Ontario, seal off its government offices and close down the legislature itself.

You have four opportunities to vote

Ontario voters will have four opportuni-

Ontario voters will have four opportunities to vote in the province's 30th general election. While a voter may cast only one ballot, the franchise may be exercised on any one of four days: September 12th, 13th, 15th or 18th.

The first three dates are advance polls, available for any qualified voter unable to vote September 18th.

Friday, September 12th, has been designated as a special advance poll by the Chief Election Officer of Ontario, Roderick Lewis, following representations that the other two days fall on Jewish holy days. Hours for the September 12th advance poll are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. EDT.

"For those not affected by the Jewish Sabbath or Yom Kippur, the additional advance polling day will be a useful convenience for voters who have to vote early," says Mr. Lewis.

September 13th and 15th are the regular advance polls — defined by The Election Act as the Saturday and Monday immediately preceding election day.

Hours for voting at these normal advance polls are noon to 9 p.m. EDT.

Because Returning Officers have been directed to hold their advance polls in easily accessible locations, handicapped and elderly voters are encouraged to vote during one of the advance polls.

On election day, September 18th, the polls will open at 9 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

What can we say about the Davis government?

Absolutely nothing. It's illegal to say anything.

We are Ontario's Crown employees and civil servants. Our political rights are virtually non-existent.

Some of us have tried to become active in political parties. We have been told to quit or be fired.

We think this is ridiculous.

Some of us support Mr. Davis' party. Naturally, others support the NDP or the Liberals.

But this doesn't matter to the government. It simply believes we should have fewer rights than other citizens.

We don't agree.

What is the harm in our speaking or writing publicly on issues such as housing, education and taxes?

Or, what danger is there for us to put up lawn signs, or canvass on behalf of a candidate?

The government thinks this is wrong. It has made such activities illegal.

We believe in basic democratic rights.

And this won't cost taxpayers a cent.

We hope you will vote for equal rights . . . for everyone.

What more can we say?

Whose rights go next?

at a serious subject. It seems more useful than Davis and Nixon calling each other names, but whether in fact it changes anything is quite another matter.

Stephen Lewis stopped off in Toronto, to present a 43-page-brief on oil costs to the Ontario royal commission on petroleum products pricing.

It contained little new but was packaged in such a persuasive fashion that it made oil company lawyers at the hearing noticably uncomfortable.

The theme was the same - the oil giants are ripping off the folks. But the difference as it contained little rhetoric but a lot of tough statistics to support the basic premise.

Basically, Lewis does not like the oil The feeling is no doubt companies.

mutual.

He said the 90-day freeze on gas and heating oil will last until December 27, not

September 30.

Davis incidentally has hinted he may Davis incidentally has hinted he had extend the freeze. Lewis wants the Ontario Energy Board to force oil companies to justify further price increases and would give that board power to set retail petroleum prices in Ontario based on the cost of operation plus the period of the period of the same a return of about 10 per cent, the same system government now uses to control public utilities such as hydro and the gas public utilities such as hydro and the gas companies.

He wants Ontario to demand a national investigation into Canadian oil reserves and failing that, conduct its own inquiry. In fact, those two crude oil increases since May 1974 have cost the average Ontario family $303.60. Lewis said there has been a conspiracy among the "self-serving" oil companies to hood-wink the public and government into thinking higher prices are necessary and what's worse, federal policy has been aimed at serving the oil interests, not yours.

It's a complicated topic and Lewis admits he's no expert although Hugh MacKenzie, his researcher is and in some ways it's far removed from the realm of an Ontario election campaign.

But if what Lewis says is true, then you should think of that the next time you go to the pumps or pay your home heating bill it it's not ture then the oil companies should say so.

should say so.

It may seem revolutionary to the oil companies but basically all Lewis wants is an explanation. "At the same time as the oil industry has been complaining about high taxes and clamoring for higher prices, it has been receiving record profits and experiment rates of profit increases." and exhorbitant rates of profit increases. The oil industry certainly appears not to

The oil industry certainly appears not to need to receive a price increase."

Consider for the moment, Imperial Oil's $290 million profit last year, up $62 million over the year 'before, or Gulf's $161 million, up from $100 million in 1973.

He said the two oil increases have cost Ontario 31,080 jobs and $735 million in lost gross provincial product and thousands more jobs will be lost because of Ottawa's 10 cent federal excise tax. With 10 cent federal excise tax. With unemployment already at 6.4 per cent in June, the highest rate since 1946, who needs it? Oil executives say their Canadian prices have little to do with actual production costs and Lewis says it may have been no accident that the industry estimates, of potential petroleum production changed drastically all at once, all in the best interests of the companies.

He said the 45-day federal price freeze in 1974 was a $59 million windfall for the oil companies because Ottawa, using oil companies figures, underestimated their inventories.

Now he won't gain many votes on the issue but it is a clever one-upmanship in the midst of the campaign. Davis, since it's his royal commission, could hardly appear before it but Nixon could have, if had thought about it.

No matter what you think about Lewis or his party, it's refreshing in these mad times to see somebody take a serious look

3 Celebrity Parade BY CATHY POST FIELD

Did Roy Scheider of "Jaws" do his own stuntwork with the sharks? Also, didn't he appear in "The French Connection?" L. Alsop, Gallup, N. Mex.
Yes to both. In fact, he got an Oscar nomination as supporting actor for playing Gene Hackman's sidekick in "Connection." Scheider says: "I did my own stunt work not because I wanted to — hell, I'm no hero — but we were working on a boat in tight spaces and really since they were showing the terror in our faces there was no way a stuntman could have done those closeups."

How are things going between Glenn Ford and Cynthia Hayward. Is the romance holding up? Also, how many films has Ford made? Beverly Caro, New Orleans, La.

Glenn and Cynthia are still so cosy as can be that she will have a role in his upcoming TV series "Holvak" (a title they should change since so obviously they want to trade on the popular "Kojak"). Glenn has made 167 films, more than any other Hollywood star.

Whatever happened to Katherine DuRoss, the lady who was with Henry Ford II when he was arrested on that driving violation in California? T. M., Sanford, Fla.

Ms. DuRoss says she has no intention of capitalizing on the incident and will not become another Fanne Foxe. The raven-haired mother of two teen-agers recently open-ed L'Esprit, Detroit's only downtown discotheque. Edsel and wife Cynthia Ford attended the club's debut but Henry did not Henry did not

OTTAWA and Small Business

By KENNETH McDONALD

Ottawa says business won't be hurt by that 10-cent a gallon raise in the federal gasoline tax because it can be reclaimed. Which just shows how remote the mandarins are from reality. How much will it cost to keep track of the extra tax? What happens to cash flow while waiting to get it back? How many new forms will have to be filled out in how many copies? What about the extra costs to suppliers? They too have to pay more every day so how do they hold their prices?

Dr. Donner, the economist, calculates the extra 10-cent tax, plus the $1.50 rise in the price of crude oil (most of which is tax), plus the rise in natural gas rates, will bump the Consumer Price Index by three per cent by July of 1976. If all this is in aid of saving fuel, why not reduce the speed limit to 55 mph and save lives as well? Ottawa says the 10 per cent tax is to help pay the cost of importing foreign fuel to Quebec and the Maritimes. But gas is selling for 61 cents in Quebec versus 75 cents in Ontario!

Gas. beef. eggs - once Ottawa gets into the pricing business it distorts the market system. As if new battalions of civil servants can regulate demand and supply as effectively as millions of Canadians do every day by their individual choices. Even worse is the growth of paperwork that results from each new Ottawa ruling. A national survey conducted for the first two quarters of 1975 by the Canadian Federation of Independent Business showed "government regulations and the paperwork burden" to be the single most important problem facing business-

The effect of all the interference from Ottawa is to discourage businesses from expanding. Who wants to grow bigger when growth merely aggravates the problems? More business means more men today.

taxes, more paperwork, more personal worry in a 70-hour week to satisfy the 9 to 4 experts in Ottawa.

Canada could grow and by encouraging small business to develop. Encouraging this would also strengthen the commercial base of Canada's smaller communities and help reverse the movement to big urban centres. Ottawa could help this in a positive way by setting aside a proportion of all government contracts for small firms. Ottawa's Supply and Services Department could set the example for the provinces to follow. How about it, Mr. Gover?

It's sometimes said that in Canada today the only growth industry is the civil service at all three levels. But as it grows, it imposes more restrictions, more harassment, more paperwork on a business community struggling to produce the goods and services on which Canada's prosperity depends.

SPECIAL MEETING

Opening tenders for development road

A special meeting has been called for Friday. Sept. 12. at 1:30 p.m.. at the Marmora Town Hall, for the opening of tenders for the development road between Marmora and Lake Townships and Belmont and Methuen Townships.

It is expected that members of the two councils, and probably Hastings MPP Clarke Rollins and Peterborough MPP John Turner will be present at the meeting. Replacement of the Deer River bridge, which collapsed under the weight of a lot truck last winter, is expected to be done first.

Construction of the road itself will probably start at Carl McMillen's property, Reeve Ritchie Wells explained, and it is hoped that one and a half miles of the proposed four miles of development can be done this fall.

Farm and Garden

Eggheads at the university level are often ignored by Eggheads at the university level are farmers, usually with good reason.

It is the man in the field and in the barn who knows what he wants and how to get it rather than the textbook-type with a string of letters behind his name who knows where

But there are times when the eggheads have something to say and the guy with manure on his boots should listen.

Not long ago, I heard a talk by Dr. Ted Burnside of the department of animal and poultry science at the University of Guelph. He didn't have too many kind words for some of the artificial insemination co-operatives now so popular in Ontario. He maintains that many of the breeding co-ops are controlled by an influential minority of purebred breeders who derive more income from the sale of fancy breeding stock than from the sale of milk.

I am far from an expert in the field of genetics but I have

I am far from an expert in the field of genetics but I have an idea that Burnside knows whereof he speaks. What should a dairyman be looking for when building his herd? Milk production, first and foremost.

Production, first and toremost.

Does it really matter whether a cow has a twisted horn or poor coloring in her switch as long as she produces great quantities of quality milk? Does it matter if her udder is so low you could scuffle corn with her? Does it matter whether she's red, black and white or brindle as long as she

That, in essence, is what Burnside told a group of dairy

Because these influential purebred breeders get them-elves elected to the sire selection committees, they naturbecause these influential purebred breeders get themselves elected to the sire selection committees, they naturally look for show winnings and the fine points of conformation in the selection of bull dams. Many sound producers get passed up because the selection committee members are looking for other things.

This extra attention to type, said the doctor of animal husbandry, is costing dairymen significantly in lower rates of improvement of production of milk. And production of milk is the only reason dairymen should be in business.

milk is the only reason dairymen should be in business.
"Buy a cow for milk production only." was his advice.
Does it matter what she looks like? She can look like a western pinto in an east wind as long as she produces. The Holstein-Friesian Association has had a policy of emphasizing equally both type and production. Perhaps it's time to revise that policy.

revise that policy.

The fancy show-winner who fails to milk at a high rate

The fancy show-winner who fails to milk at a high rate under normal conditions has no place on a modern dairy farm unless the owner is after prestige instead of an improvement in milk production. And if he is after prestige, he shouldn't be in the dairy business.

And how should co-op members go about changing some of the attitudes of selection committees? By actively seeking membership on those committees. Get elected to them. Get your spoke into the wheel. Soon, you'll become the hub and that's what gets the grease. You can't fault the purebred breeders for simply protecting their own interests.

Unfortunately, many purebred breeders are not in the business of producing milk. Many are hobby farmers with an eye only to the export market.

Commercial dairymen should have as their chief goal the efficient production of large quantities of quality milk per man per year. It is not beyond the realm of possibility for Ontario dairymen to produce a million pounds of milk per man per year, according to Dr. Burnside, in spite of the fact that the average in the state of New York is 300,000 pounds of milk per man per year.

The dairyman who can reach these goals will be as soughtafter and as respected as the dairyman who consistently breeds superior progeny-tested A1 sires or Royal Grand Champions.

breeds superior progeny-tested A1 sires or Royal Grand Breeding show winners does not necessarily point in the Breeding show winners does not already and it is same direction as efficient production of large quantities of quality milk. It can point in the same direction and often does but conscientious dairy farmers should be in the foreign which front in letting their breeding co-operatives know

New Dridge at I will Sister L A new bridge at the Twin Sister Lakes in Marmora Township next year is a Marmora possibility. Charles Young and Henry McFarlane, president and vice-president of the newly formed Twin Sisters Ratepayers Association were advised of this when they visited the Marmora and Lake Township Council meeting Saturday.

Reeve Ritchie Wells revealed that he and Deputy-Reeve John Wilkes had visited the bridge site on Monday, August 25, with Clarke Rollins, Hastings MPP, and Lloyd Nugent, P. Engineer, from the Kingston office of the Ministry of Transportation and unications.

"The decision taken at that meeting," Mr. Wells said, "was that it was too late to undertake the project this year but it was suggested that council make application for supplementary monies next year."

At Mr. Wells suggestion, council decided to ask the ministry to undertake an engineering study of the bridge as som as possible so that an early start can be made

Mr. Young said the purpose of the Ratepayers Association was not to "twist council's arm in any way" but merely to act in an advisory capacity. He thanked council for the work that was done recently on the road into west lake.

Mr. Young asked that, when a bridge is built, that it be high enough to allow boats to go from one lake to the other.

Mr. McFarlane thanked council for denying permission to a Toronto man for the establishment of a trailer and tent park

THE TIME IS RIGHT TO BUILD THAT HOME YOU WANT START BUILDING TOMORROW WITH

Low Cost - No Down Payment Housing From Rollins Lumber!

"What Makes Rollins Lumber's Self-Help Plan Better For Me Right Now?"

There are two main ingredients required by anyone who wants to build a home - money and land. With Rollins Lumber's Self-Help plan you may provide your own lot or choose one of our approved building lots. Once you decide on the location, there's nothing to stop you from owning your own home.

Start with No Down Payment and Rollins Lumber will help you arrange a mortgage, for which money is now available. It's important to make your decision to build now - because mortgage money may tend to tighten up again in the near future.

The Self-Help people have attempted to remove the red tape from home building making it easier as well as less costly. By reducing over-all costs your home becomes eligible for the $500. federal grant for first time home buyers. Self-Help homes also qualify for the $1500. Provincial Grants. By building now with the Self-Help home plan, you can capitalize on these grants, easy to obtain mortgage money and of course the security of owning your own home. Check it out today and look over our selection of ready-tobuild designs.

By BILL SMILEY

IT wasn't quite the ridiculous and the sublime, but near enough. A good, contrasting picture of Canada on a Sunday in summer.

We'd gone back to the village to join Grandad in the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the little white church by the bay.

Sunday morning, breakfast over, off for a drive with the city-lawyer brother-inlaw, while the wives were doing the dishes.

Poked around the neighborhood, shaking our heads over the property developments, where entrepreneurs were getting as much for a single lot as their grandfathers had for a 150-acre farm with house and barn.

Commiserated with each other over the fact that we'd both be millionaires if we'd bought some of this shore other over the fact that we'd both be millionaires if we'd bought some of this shore property 20 years ago, when it was dirt cheap. Conveniently forgot that neither of us had enough money to buy one lot 20 years ago, let alone a mile of shoreline.

Driving along the shore road, spotted a lot of activity. Naturally, stopped for a look, as one always does in the country.

country.

It was a scuba diving expedition, complete with vans, tanks, goggles, snorkels, and man-from-Mars suits.

Hung around to watch, and asked some casual questions from one of the "divers." He was so reticent you'd have thought he was just about to climb into a Moon-bound capsule, instead of into about 12 inches of water.

water.

He finally admitted grimly that the group had just finished its training, and that this "dive" they were about to make was the "real thing."

There were about 20 in the group. We stood around and watched as they struggled and wiggled and squirmed into their skin-tight suits and heavy tanks, and sprayed their goggles and checked their air-lines and adjusted their flippers.

This was the real thing, no This was the real thing, no question about it, and the tension mounted steadily as they spent half an hour getting fitted out for the dangers of the depths: octopi, sunken wrecks, sharks.

There was column to the depth of the depth octopi.

There was only one female in the group, an extremely chubby one, and she had so much trouble squeezing into her suit and getting it zipped over the bulges that I was mighty glad I wasn't out there, trapped in a wreck, waiting for her to rescue me.

Finally, purple in the face,
he was ready.
Then their leader appeared. He had been out there, fearlessly probing the possible dangers of the sunken wreck.
He steed there harking

He stood there, barking orders, making them re-check their gear, dividing them into teams, ensuring that their boot-knives were available for a swift slash of a available for a swift slash of a tangled life-line.

Finally, the big dive was on. They waded for 10 feet, since it was too shallow to lie down. Then they flopped and snorkeled out, in about two feet of water, to the wreck, every nerve keyed, every sense alerted to the perils ahead.

The assistant instructor.

The assistant instructor,

The assistant instructor, who wasn't making the dive, sighed with relief, pulled a beer out of his van, and chatted cheerfully with us.

"What do they do out there?" he was asked. "Not a helluva lot," he replied.

"When you've swum over the thing about three times, that's about it."

We silently concurred. We

We silently concurred. We knew the "sunken wreck" was an old barge, towed there years before to serve as a dock for a boat-owner. Three years ago, when the water was lower, it sat three feet out of the water. The only sunken treasure would have to be the old car motor which anchored it.

I know that diving must be fun, and is dangerous, but this operation made me giggle. It was like watching a lot of six-year-old boys get fitted out in their space uniforms, do a ritual countdown, and then run around the backyard yelling: "Zoom!"

Couldn't help pondering on why 20-odd people would drive a round trip of 300 miles from the city and get dressed in Halloween cos-tumes to paddle around in three feet of water "explor-ing" an old barge. Three hours later, we were sitting in the church, for the anniversary service, just 100 yards down the road from

There was a simple dignity here which underlined the silliness of the other opera-

I guess we were as inap-propriately dressed for a hot summer day as the divers — shirts and ties and suits and summer dresses. Most of the people were middle-aged to old, with a sprinkling of children.

But there was a sense of

But there was a sense of drawing together, of closeness, of continuity.
Reading the brief history of this little, frame, 100-year-old building, one was aware, however dimly, of the fierce determination of the first families, when they erected it, on a donated lot, at a cost of $500, that their children would be God-fearing, God-loving Christians.

And there was a little sadness in the knowledge that the Sunday School had been forced to close, and that the church is now open only in summer, and that many of the children, and the child-ren's children and so on, are neither God-fearing nor God-

And there was some pride when Grandad, sitting next to me, was singled out as having been associated with that church for 75 years.

But the children and the children's children had rallied around for the occasion. And after the service, there was the get-together in the community hall for the coffee and sandwiches, and the hundreds of handshakes, and the sometimes desperate trying to put together of names and faces not seen for years, and the presentation of grandchildren, and the hard realization that everyone is granding older. sandwiches, and the one is growing older.

The new and the old. The silliness and the simplicity.

The plump young city men struggling into their skinsuits, and the weather-beaten farmers in their strangling collars and ties.

Legion Drumhead service success

Madoc Royal Canadian Legion Branch 363 was host to the District Zone F3 Drumhead Service and Parade on Sunday, September 14th. This was the first time in 27 years that such occasion was last held in Madoc.

Over 140 members and band members plus colour party marched to the Cenotaph for the opening ceremony and silent tribute to fallen comrades. District Commander Cliff Cote, Lindsay, laid the wreath, Rev. (Capt.) J. H. Thompson, Branch Padre and Rector of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, Madoc, had prayers of remembrance, while Cadet SL Charles Bronson played the Last Post, Revielle and the pipe careful and litter-conscious, that a minority continue to dispose of the ever-increasing amount of debris on public property.

The village work crew collect almost a half-ton truck load of garbage from the main street area, twice each week. This is costly, and much of it unnecessary if the people who cause the problem would use the litter containers provided. Various methods of improving this situation were proposed including a litter control by-law, letters to take-out operators asking for their assistance, as well as an appeal to the public for co-operation.

The parade proceeded to the Kiwanis Centre where the audience witnessed the traditional laying up the drums and depositing of the colours. Legion opening ceremony was conducted by Comrade J. Colton, while Past Zone commander Bert Bastedo, Stirling, chaired the programme. Comrade Tom Sandford, President of Madoc Branch 363, welcomed everyone. This was also extended by Reeve C. Barton on behalf of the Village. Greetings were also conveyed by Mr. Jack Ellis, M.P. Hastings.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Comrade John Maw, Oshawa. He spoke on the early days of Legion life and of the expansion and growth of this service club now. He noted it is the largest group in Canada. The Legion, along with the Ladies Auxiliary is contributing to many worthy projects right across Canada. Next year the R.C.L. will be celebrating its Golden Jubilee. It would be marked by many special events, among them the planting of golden tulip bulbs this fall.

The Divine Service was conducted by Padre J. H. Thompson. Following this rather eventful colourful ceremony and remembrance, the Ladies Auxiliary of Madoc Branch served a hearty lunch to the many guests, comrades and visitors.

School reunion plans causing great excitement

Described as "the most exciting thing that has happened since our school days" by the organizing committee is the Madoc High School reunion being planned in conjunction with Madoc Fair.

With the theme, "Remember the Good With the theme, "Remember the Good Old Days", the group has been planning for this event for months. At least 300, perhaps 400, are expected to participate in this reunion. Poeple from such distant points as British Columbia and other provinces, Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal and even the United States, have been contacted about the event. On the first day of the fair, Saturday, eptember 27th, many who had attended ladoc High School from 1940 or earlier Madoc High School from 1940 or earlier will be registering in a large tent on the grounds marked with a big banner. Every person registering will think they are back in "the good old days" when they find that the $1.00 registration fee includes a name tag to be worn all day, a tour of the present school building after the fair, and a lunch at the Kiwanis Centre followed by an evening of dancing there. Registration is to start at 12 noon.

Getting our own back!

OTTAWA — (SF) — At a seminar with third world representatives at the University of Western Ontario, visiting journalists were handed something of a surprise. Jamaica's Minister of Industry, Trade, and Tourism, P. J. Patterson, claimed that resentment against Canada among the developing nations is still at a fairly high level because of actions the government took in 1970.

Remember the low world wheat prices of that time? Remember how Ottawa paid Western Farmers not to grow wheat? In Canadian eyes there was some justification for the payments for each acre taken out of production. Grain was jamming every available storage space. World prices were down, and international sales were slow.

World prices were down, and international sales were slow.

But Patterson, portraying the wheat situation from the point of view of a customer, reminded us that following Canadian and American actions to reduce production, wheat on the international market rose from $65 a ton to more than $200 a ton in six months. He said, bitterly, that while wheat prices went up because of deliberate manipulation of supply, people in many countries were starving.

The wheat price hike, Patterson hinted, was one of the reasons that the oil producing nations of the developing world formed the Organization of Oil Producing and Exporting Countries. Remember, it was the year after wheat prices climbed out of sight that OPEC began the campaign for higher oil prices.

In the eyes of a third world country, what is the difference between manipulating the price of grain into threefold increases, and doing the same thing with oil? Patterson claimed, with some justification, that there was more moral righteousness in boosting energy prices than in pricing food beyond the reach of starving people.

Patterson issued a warning to the West, that unless trade injustices ended, commodity cartels of equal power with OPEC would be formed, and confrontation would be the new international order of the day.

Fair prices must be paid for the products of the developing nations, and those prices must be indexed to inflation, so the buying power of the developing world is not unfairly eroded.

Canada has some lessons to learn in that area.

Some of the fish-hogs from Ontario were literally hysterical after half a day's fishing.

It begins like this. The guide takes you out to a spot, and you troll slowly. In five minutes you've caught a pike that would have delighted you back home.

"Better throw it back. Let him grow up," mutters the guide, laconically. You are ready to clutch that fourpound pike to your breast and cry, tearfully: "Nobody's gonna get this baby away from me." Too late. The guide has unhooked the fish and let it swim away.

In the next 10 minutes, you've thrown back four, about the same size. Suddenly, your fishing partner ties into a good one, and with a lot of reel-screeching and general excitement, he lands one about nine pounds.
"Yeah, we'll keep dat one.

Aside from the fishing, there is the magnificent feeling of being away from it all. Miles and miles and miles of clean water and thousands of acres of bush, and little old you right in the middle of it.

Most of the northern lakes have only a few outfitters located on them, and the government, to cheers from me, is not leasing more shore property. Without government intervention, I can see these beautiful, lonely lakes ravaged by motor-boats, ringed with cottages, and soggy with pollution in a

TODAY'S HEALTH

A balanced daily diet is nutritious and low-cost

by David Woods

"One should eat to live, not live to eat."

So said Moliere more than 300 years ago, and his advice applies even more strongly in today's generally affluent society.

erally affluent society.

Trouble is, the first option — eating to live — is much easier said than done. Even those who eat in moderation often manage to eat the wrong foods, or the wrong mix of nutrients. The secret — for enjoyment, fleath, weight control — is a balanced diet.

And a balanced diet doesn't mean an unbalanced budget. Socialled "junk" foods — like candy and cookies, soft drinks, some cereals, and gelatin desserts, which add to your weight, but provide no nutrition — are generally no less expensive than "real" foods.

Nutritionists say that you need/something from each of five main categories of this "real" food every day. The categories are: milk, fruit, vegetables, cereal and bread, and meat or protein alternates such as fish, eggs or cheese.

Depending on your age and the amount physical activity you engage in, the daily intake of these nutrients will vary. In general, older people need less food because they're less active.

A useful guide to daily intake requirements appears in Easy Eat-ing, a pamphlet published by the Ontario Ministry of Health. In it, Ontario Ministry of Health. In it, a balanced diet for the average adult is considered to include: one and a half cups of milk a day; two servings of fruit or fruit juice, including some containing vitamin C, like orange or lemon; two servings of vegetables, preferably yellow or green, and frequently raw; one serving of potatoes; bread; whole grain cereal; and one serving of meat, fish or poultry — or some other protein source.

other protein source.

That may sound like a lot to remember, but eating these foods is an easy enough habit to get into. If you're a between-meals snacker try to choose something from those categories, too, instead of opting for the convenience of a chocolate bar or a cookie. Nutritionists point out that if you're hungry, or need an energy lift, you'll do far better with real food than with a filler. Nutritions snacking can be had from milkshakes, nuts, cheese and crackers, muffins, or fresh fruit in season.

There are no shortcuts to a well-rounded diet. You can't, for example, make up for poor eating habits by swallowing vitamin pills.

On the other hand, it's easy enough to acquire a well-rounded figure — a fact supported by the Nutrition Canada survey, which tound that about half of all Canadians are overweight. The solution, and the way to avoid all those fadand-fancy dieting plans, is to eat sensibly to live.

Presbyterian moderator paying official visit to Stirling

Stirling — The highlight of the church year for members of the Presbyterian Churches in Stirling and West Huntingdon will take place September 20-21, when the Moderator of the 10ist General Assembly, Rt. Rev. Dr. David William Hay will pay an official visit to the village. He will speak briefly at a congregational dinner on Saturday night and participate in the regular worship service Sunday morning at 11:00 a.m.

11:00 a.m.

Dr. Hay was born in Scotland and studied in Edinburgh and began his ministry there with the Church of Scotland. About 1939 he was approached by the then principal of Knox College, Toronto, to join the staff. War service intervened and he served as a chaplain in the British armed forces. He asked to have his name dropped from the appointment in Canada, but in 1940 he was selected, and in 1944 left the service to come to Canada, where he was inducted into the chair of systematic theology. In 1946 he also began lecturing in liturgics and homiletics.

He retired this spring after 31 years as a member of the college staff. He was honored with honourary Doctor of Divinity Degrees from Queen's University in 1949, and Trinity College, Toronto in 1973, and in 1960 served as president of the Canadian Council of Churches.

During his school career, he was associate editor of the Canadian Journal of Theology, represented the Presbyterian Church on the faith and order commission of the World Council of Churches for 12 years, and is presently the General Assembly's committee on church doctrine. He was one of those instrumental in the revision of the Book of Common Order, the basicitheological work of the church.

Callers on Mrs. Donly last week included Mr. Gregg Hunter, Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hunter and son Paul, Belleville, Mrs. Harriett Webster, Toronto and Mrs. Alice Bird of Madoc.
Mrs. Melanson visted Mrs. Harris one night last week.
Mr. Stewart McLeod, U.S.A. called on old friends and neighbours recently. He was enroute to Elephant Lake to make arrangements for a summer cottage there for future use.
Mr. and Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Donly visited friends in Peterborough on Friday. Quite a number attended the reception at Bancroft on Sunday afternoon to join in best wishes to Mr. Clarke J. Rollins on the election for Thursday.
Those who attended the Women's Institute Wednesday night enjoyed the visiting ladies, Mrs. McCoy and Mrs. Blackburn in their helpful talks.
Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ashley, Mrs. Webster and Mrs. Bird, Madoc were callers on Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. K. Chambers who recently moved to Marmora from Toronto.
Mrs. Mildred Simpson visited friends and relatives in Trenton over the weekend.

A little class on the bus, and about time, too. Bob Mowat, son of Farley, was travelling with Nixon's entourage as part of the team covering the campaign for Medium Two, the Erindale College student newspaper. Rob said the Liberal leader was the only one to grant an interview, Davis and Lewis asked that the paper submit written questions.

Like all living creatures, man's needs are many. To provide for oneself, one's family. To be free to make plans with the people who help give them life.

This was achieved through the purchase of uneconomic farm units and making them available to nearby farmers on a long-term leasing agreement which included an option to purchase at the original purchase price. More than 2,700 Ontario farmers have used and benefitted from the program since its inception in 1962

While Ontario's farming units have become larger and more economically viable they have also become more valuable. The transfer of property from father to son is no longer a simple transaction. Fair market values have to be used and in most cases a considerable amount of money has to change hands. This presents a very real problem to most young people who would like to start farming.

Both the Federal and the property of the prop

Both the Federal and the Provincial governments have recognized this problem and have introduced programs which should relieve it and assure the continuation of the family farm and a reliable, home-grown food supply.

The Farm Credit Corporation, a federal government agency has revised its mortgage program to allow for larger loans and to permit a higher percentage of the value of the property to be covered by the mortgage. It has also revised its elegibility guide lines to permit some part-time farmers to receive loans. # Provincial ELECTION - '75

It's too close to call!

When area residents go to the polls in the province's general election Thursday, they'll be helping solve quite a mystery. This election, the pundits predict, is "too close to call."

The governing Progressive Conservative Party, after 32 years in office, seems to have failed in its bid to ignite another province wide sweep to continued power. But the opposition Liberals, while gaining ground like they haven't in decades, have likewise appeared to have failed in efforts to get a band-wagon effect on their side. The result, say many, could well be a minority government headed by either Premier William Davis or Opposition Leader, Robert Nixon.

Leader Robert Nixon.

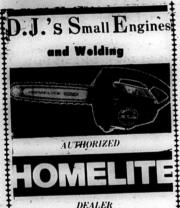

The NDP, under leader Stephen Lewis, are not expected to get enough seats, even though some pundits claim Lewis and his party put on the best over-all campaign. The NDP, at best, should just gain a few more seats but still remain the third party in the legislature.

Locally, the Hastings-Peterborough rid-ing has shaped up into a hotly contested affair, with both opposition parties staging their best-yet campaigns in a provincial vote. Incumbent Conservative Clarke Rollins, who has held the post for the past vote. Incumbent Conservative Clarke Rollins, who has held the post for the past 16 years, faces a serious challenge from Liberal David Hobson, who some people say could pull an upset win in the riding. Bob Thompson is running for the NDP and Nancy Arnold is the Social Credit candidate.

In the Northumberland riding, incumbent Russell Rowe, Conservative, and Speaker of the last Legislature, is once again seeking re-election. Opposing him is Isabel Kirkpatrick of the Liberals and John Taylor for the NDP.

Let's get back to the basics...

Follow the crowd, and join the swing to Hobson and the Nixon team!

Ontario had pretty good governments in the days of Leslie Frost and John Robarts. We made a lot of progress and aimed for balanced budgets.

The Government of Premier William Davis, however, isn't like the Governments of Frost and Robarts.

Under the Davis administration, we aren't making the progress we should be, as the Gov't uses short term remedies to situations, instead of getting at the grass root causes of our problems.

But also under the Davis administration, our provincial government spending has reached the point where interest on Ontario's debt alone is running around $2,000,000.00 a day.

As the province plunges deeper and deeper into the red, thinking Ontarioians realize we just cannot afford let let Davis continue his 'buy now, pay later' policies.

These people, many of whom voted Conservative in the days of Frost and Robarts, are realizing that this is the time to draw a halt to Ontario's spending spree, and patch-job programs, and to get back to the good, sound basic and affordable policies and programs that built this province in the first place.

These people, right across Ontario, are going to vote for the Liberal team in this election - many of them voting Liberal for the first time in their lives.

In the new riding of Hastings-Peterborough, they are placing their confidence in, and voting for Dave Hobson, the 39-year-old father of four who will give us full-time representation, and a strong youthful voice in the new 'people-come-first' government at Queen's Park.

TORONTO—The union representing Ontario's civil servants today accused Premier William Davis of attempting to mislead the public and of ignoring the facts in recent statements he has facts in recent statements he has made on the political rights of made on the pointest rights of civil servants.

Charles Darrow, president of the 60,000-member Civil Service Association of Ontario, said in a letter to Mr. Davis that his argument that granting political freedom to civil servants will destroy trust and confidence is an attempt to divert public attention from the facts.

om the facts.
Mr. Davis said recently that his Mr. Davis said recently that his government does not believe in political rights for civil servants because it will remove impartial-ity from civil service and those in politically sensitive positions could not then be trusted.

"With the tremendous number of excluded management staff --about 23 percent -- there are few. if any, civil servants represented by CSAO who have the remotest connection with policy making or politically sensitive information."

Mr. Darrow said.
Mr. Darrow pointed out that the Premier makes no distinction between deputy ministers or other top policy-making people, and the members of CSAO who are far removed from policy-making; those with such jobs as mech-anics, truck drivers, hairdressers, ds and cooks.

When was the last time a minister delegated resminister delegated res-lity to a clerk, a mechanic or a jail guard? "he asked.

"To attempt to use against the vast majority of civil servants an vast majority of civil servants an argument which applies only to those at the most senior level can only be interpreted as a deliberate attempt to befuddle the issue and mislead public opinion."

However, the union president did say that the CSAO is re-wording its radio commercials to remove any suggestion that the Davis administration initiated the res-

A personal letter to the electors of Hastings -Peterborough Riding

My friends:

The election campaign will be over Thursday night. Although this campaign has been shorter than usual, we have all heard the promises and criticisms of the opposition over and over again. It would appear that they believe that constant repetition will make their promises valid. I write this letter to help you sort out reality from dreamland.

Almost everything that I see as I drive around the riding has come under attack but, you know, in this late summer sunshine, a lot of things look pretty good here in Hastings-Peterborough. Somehow negative thinking seems out of place here.

First of all the level of prosperity that we enjoy here seems good indeed. The hundreds of cars and the busy shoppers at the malls in the riding every Friday night is the highest ever and I have seen thousands enjoying themselves at local fairs...by far the biggest crowds ever! The statistics show that we have a very high rate of employment. As you move around the riding, you just have to believe that we are a prosperous group. Prosperity, however, doesn't just happen. The Davis government of which I have been a member must have done the right things financially to lead us to that prosperity despite the noisy arguments.

Housing is another inappropriate issue in this riding. I am sure you have noticed the dozens of new homes being built in many parts of the riding. I see the good, snug, well-kept homes where you live and they look very comfortable and happily used. Housing is no issue here and all the talk seems out of place doesn't it?

In my rounds I have met a lot of happy Senior Citizens. For the most part, they enjoy greatly their later years free from money worries. A great many Senior Citizens apartments at reasonable rents provide good housing for them and these apartments have been built in all parts of the riding with more to come. Once again there is no real election issue arising from the Senior Citizens of Hastings Peterborough.

It has been a dry summer....good for the tourists and holidayers who have visited our lakes and rivers in record numbers this year. It has shown how valuable our water resources really are and our great need to conserve them. Our riding has many, many recently built dams (and will have more) to control and conserve not only water but the whole environment that depends on it. Conservation is another non-issue in Hastings-Peterborough.

The opposition seems to have missed the only real issue in the campaign. It is simply the quality of service you have the right to expect from your elected representative and whether or not he has the ability and the skill to solve your personal political problems. My friends, when you cut through all the media patter, the claims and counter cliams, there is only one issue:

Do you want the amateurish approach to representation loaded only with promises and hopes

Do you want my professional, dedicated proven performance for the next four years?

I make only one promise.....to continue my service to everyone in Hastings-Peterborough with all my skill, experience, dedication and concern as I have in the past.

Beverly, the boys and I thank you all for your many past kindnesses to us and for your generous support over many years.

I ask you once again to vote to elect me as your representative.

In all sincerity

Q. Yesterday I went to my doctor and instead of seeing him, I saw his "physician's assistant." I'd like to know a little more about this type of person — is he a doctor in training, what is he allowed to do, and how far can I trust him?

him?

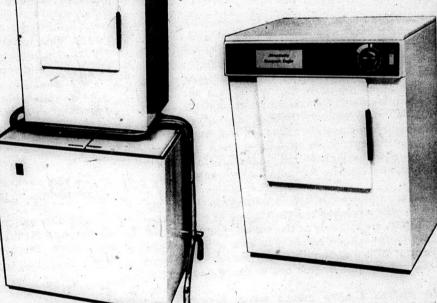

A. Your question covers a lot of ground, but I'll do my best to tell you about physician's assistants. They are not doctors, and most of them make this fact quite clear to the patients they see. They work under the direction of a doctor and usually have about three years of specialized medical training in preparation. Most of them limit their activities to the more common and simple type of care, such as baby checks, respiratory infections, and minor trauma. The doctor who employs them is responsible for their work and most often frequent checks are made between the P.A. and the doctor to monitor the assistant's activities. Wise use of a P.A. can extend the amount of work which a doctor can handle, since he'H-be spending less of his time with routine, uncomplicated matters. Most states don't allow the P.A. to write prescriptions or to practice by himself. The actual concept isn't new at all—since most of us have for years trained our office personnel to do much the same sort of work. As to the question of how far he can be trusted, I'd say that this is directly related to how far you can trust your doctor. Almost all P.A.'s are conscientious capable people who work within and recognize their limits.

P.A.'s and other physicain aides such as nurse practitioners are a product of the last several years where the numbers of physicians available to deliver day to day care of people has been considerably less than the demand.

The total effect of these aides has been to provide at least a portion of good medical care in many areas and to many people who would have otherwise been without

TORONTO—Premier William Davis has pledged his government to take several steps to ensure that Ontario food crops are harvested to the maximum benefit of producers and consumers.

The Premier, in a recent speech, stressed that "the waste of food through crop losses is both senseless and callous.
"It is a direct threat to the survival of agriculture, a direct charge upon the farmer, a ulti-mate charge to the consumer and an affront to common sense and reason," he said.

Davis, campaigning for re-election of his Progressive Con-servative government on Sep-tember 18th, identified as one roblem the need to ensure a problem the need to ensure a sufficient supply of seasonal workers to harvest fruit and vegetable crops across Ontario.

Acknowledging that "there is the problem of the casual is the problem of the casual worker sometimes being too casual, the problem caused by leaving the job before it is finished," the Premier called on the federal government to extend the qualifying period for unemployment insurance from eight to 12 weeks so that transient workers will be less tempted to withdraw from the labour force after only two months work. months work

He also said that, since "I believe in work incentives," particularly for young people seeking to finance an education, his government would introduce an income tax rebate policy to allow seasonal farm vorkers to claim, rebate from their provincial income tax pay-able of as much as $150. At the same time, he proposed that, as a matter of national policy, the a matter of national policy, inc federal government extend a $1,000 tax exemption to any Canadian engaged in seasonal work on the farm.

Davis also stressed the need to ensure that the harvesting of to ensure that the harvesting of Ontario food crops is not jeopardized by protracted labour disputes. He noted that recent amendments to the Labour Relations Act, legislated by the PC government, were designed to help settle such disputes "fairly and expeditiously."

"If we are going to grow food—and we do not really have the choice—we have to make sure choice — we have to make sure that it is not only grown, but harvested, and not only harvested, but stored or processed as well," the Premier said. And we have to do all we can to ensure that both the farmer and the consumer are not vic-timized when crops are lost and artificial shortages result be-cause of labour-management disputes over which neither the farmer nor the consumer have any control or bear any respon-sibility."

Davis said the preservation of

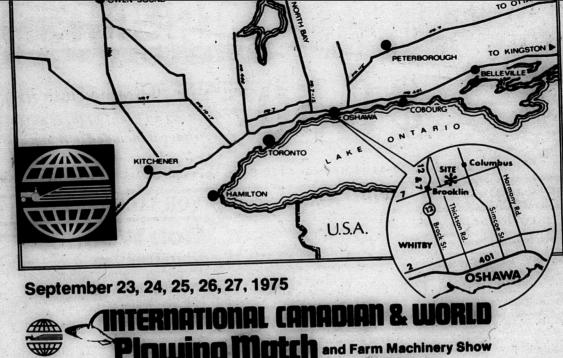

Davis said the preservation of prime land for agriculture was basic to his government's land basic to his governous policy.

"If we cannot farm, our people cannot be fed," he said.
"If we cannot be fed, we begin a dependence on others, and as we become dependent on others, we lose for all time our sense of self-sufficiency, of crowiding for ourselves. And providing for ourselves. And this would change the life and spirit of Ontario beyond recog-

The Premier said govern-ments, federal and provincial, have to assume greater respon-sibility "in support of the univ-ersal need for food.

"I believe practical measures can be taken that will be effec-tive if governments, in making a commitment to agriculture, support that commitment with courage," he said,

How and what to grow in good old H2O

Every once in a while, we hear from the water people. These are fans of growing plants, vegetables, herbs and flowers in good old H20.

Water fanciers will try anything in their favorite medium. Exotic plants, foodstuffs, flowers — all can be made to thrive indoors in any weather. To get in the swim, a good suggestion is to read James Sholto Douglas' "Beginners' Guide to Hydroponics," (Drake Publishers, N.Y., $2.95 in paperback). It tells the novice how and what to grow and offers tips on what's needed to get

Simply, you need glass, ceramic or hard plastic containers. Copper, brass or other metals won't work. They release chemicals harmful to plants. You also need gravel or coarse sand or hose pretty pearl chips you see in the bottom of aquariums. Get a bag of activated charcoal to keep the medium clean, clear of algae and smelling sweet. Clean planters and assemble all materials. All you need to do then is decide what you want to plant and how much.

If the plants you select are potted, wash off roots and trim away dead material. Layer gravel in container first, add plants and more gravel until they're supported. Fill with water mixed with water-soluble plant food at a fourth of the recommended strength. Check water level every week or so and replace after six weeks. Keep the exotic numbers out of direct sunlight and move containers around once a week to give them a balance of light.

Like a Log

Why did the girl put her bed in the fireplace? She wanted to sleep like a log. Of course there were three boys sharing the same bed. It was so crowded one got out and tried to sleep on the floor. After an hour or so one of his friends told him he might as well come back. "There's lots more room now." he said.

Knight Like This

Knight Like This
There was the brave knight who preferred to ride a Great Dane rather than a horse. One night he was caught in a violent rainstorm. The innkeeper naturally hated knights, and at first refused to give him a room. When the innkeeper saw the Great Dane standing there soaking wet though, he said. "I couldn't turn a knight out on a dog turn a knight out on a dog like this."

Is the current visit of Prince Rainer and Princess Grace of Monaco their first back to the U.S. since the then actress Grace Kelly married him? E. Warner, Houston, Tex.

No, both came when her father died several years ago. Actually the Prince had hoped no one except his wife's immediate family would know about the trip as he wanted to attend as few social functions as possible. Incidentally, Prince Albert, 17, heir to the throne worked as a camp counselor in New Hampshire this summer.

Is there any truth to that "so-called" romance between Sen. Edward Kennedy and Washington glamor-girl Page Lee Hufty? L. Porter, Sherman Oaks, Calif.

None at all. The pretty blond enjoyed discussing politics and playing tennis with the married Senator, but several months ago ceased seeing him because she realized people were gossiping (and still are!).

What's with the feud between Liza Minnelli and Mick Jagger? I understand she slapped him recently at a public affair. G. Jenes, Providence, R.I.

You've got the story slightly mixed up, though I can understand that since little publicity was given the incident. What happened was that at The Rolling Stones' Los Angeles concert, Mick poured a bucket of water in the direction of his wife Bianca and Liza, both of whom were sitting ringside. It was all in fun and later at a party for the Stones, Liza doused Mick with a glass of water.

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: tain you're clear on with law a horrible problem. I am 14 years old. My mother doesn't allow me to socialize with boys my age. She acts like a two year old baby. All my friends can have boy company, phone calls, and go out. We talk to our teacher said: "There's something wrong with a girl who doesn't socialize with boys." Another teacher says. "It's perfectly normal for girls and boys to be social at 14 years old." I agree with both of them but my mother says I'm too young and to wait until I'm 16 years old. I need help.

tain you're clear on what your teachers are saying. your teachers are saying. Have your mother talk with Have your mother talk with them about the situation. Take responsibility for the dilemma you've created for yourself. Be clear that mom makes the rules in her house. Accept that fact. When she recognizes you're accepting all your assigned responsibilities, chances are good the rules will change. She loves you and is doing what she thinks best. You're the one acting like a two-year old baby. Your problem is not horrible. It is a very common one. Take responsibility for it and help yourself.

Some 'free admissions' to '75 fall fair

Free admission will be offered to many visitors at Madoc's annual fall fair this weekend.

Beginning on Friday evening, Sept. 26, the grounds will be open free of charge with a full Conklin midway in operation. For the rest of the weekend special free admission is offered to all those who show proof that they were born in the year of the first Madoc fair, 1905. This special first Madoc fair, 1903. Impact admission is being offered to coincide with the 70th anniversary of the fair and also with the Madoc High School reunion, taking place on the grounds on Saturday.

President of the Madoc Agricultural Society, Grant Ketcheson, reported that things are shaping up for the weekend. He said the organizers, like himself, were hoping for good co-operation from the weather.

It has been confirmed that Harold

Tickets are also available to parents and friends for the District's parents and friends for the District's Annual Scouter's Banquet, to be held in Kaladar this year at $3.50 per plate on Saturday, October 4th. The guest speaker will be Jeff Douglas, a Boy Scout from 1st Land O' Lakes Troop, who attended the World Scout Jamboree in Norway this summer.

The Scout Troop will not be reorganizing this season, again due to insufficient leaders. Scout Trooper, Paul Downey, would be most willing to keep the Troop in operation if he could but find two enthusiastic and reliable assistants.

With so many boys of Cubbing age in this community, it is discouraging to have to tell them there is not room in the Pack for new Cubs this year. Nixon stirred up too much mud - and it hurt!

Robert Nixon may have helped stir a file white water in the blue tide of the Fories, but he also stirred up a little too much mud with harsh attacks on the Conservative government.

And that mud hurt.

Instead of coming out as number one, riding atop the slogan: Ontario just can't afford another Davis government," he

"But I'm disappointed.
"The Blue Machine is still moving, although limping. The people have shown they are critical of the Premier and his policies, not enough to change govern-ments."

The 47-year-old Nixon, riding to an easy victory in his home riding of Brant-Oxford-Norfolk said there would be no alliance in the minority government now formed by Premier Davis.

"It's a part of Ontario politics for each party to be independent. Stephen Lewis can stand up for himself and so can I."
The mud, the issues that hurt the Nixon movement, centred about integrity, right from the beginning. And, the name-calling, exemplified by the recent TV debate that became a shouting match

The people of Ontario have spoken

The people of this province spoke loud and clear in our provincial election last week - they are not happy with the William Davis style of Conservativism, but they are not sure of the Liberal or NDP alternatives.

. While the NDP slid into second place, by doubling their seats to an impressive 38, the Socialists really didn't do as good as so many people think.

. A check of the popular vote shows the NDP gained less than two per cent of the total votes cast; in other words, the party's gain was less than two votes in 100. A breakthrough? Hardly!

.The NDP made their seat gains because the Liberals took away a good portion of the traditional Conservative vote - which, in many cases, allowed the NDP to slip into seats the Tories would otherwise have won.

The net result, however, could give us one of our better provincial administrations.

.Trudeau's best government was when he was in a minority position; Davis' best, now that he has to listen to the people (and the opposition in particular) could well be just beginning.

Locally, the re-election of Clarke T.Rollins, in solid Conservative country, was no surprise. During 16 years in office, Mr. Rollins has served a lot of people, and has made a lot of friends

The surprising factor was the big gains made by the Liberal Party, and candidate Dave Hobson particularly in the northern

If would appear that people can no longer take for granted that the Conservative candidates in this riding will be automatic winners from now. on. The 2,300 vote majority won by the Tories this time out leaves this riding as a potential swinger that could well go either way come the next vote, especially if the Tories have a new candidate to whom the electorate owes no debts.

Many thanks for your support and encouragement

By DON & BEV MULLAN

Today's edition of this newspaper marks its final publication under the ownership of Mullan Publications. Cembal Publications, the new owners, take over the reins Friday.

We would like to take this opportunity to say thankyou to the many wonderful people of this area who gave us so much support, and encouragement, in reestablishing community newspaper service here.

We would also like to take this opportunity to say sincere thanks to our staff-the people that work both in front and behind the scenes they're doing a marvellous job, and since they are all being retained by the new owners, the paper will continue to be in good hands.

Our goal was to reestablish a newspaper hereone that would give people a general rundown of local and area news, and a variety of interesting features.

We feel we have come a long way towards accomplishing this goal; the ever increasing number of subscribers, and advertisers, prove we are on the right track. Our first issues ran eight pages. Today's papers run anywhere from 24 to 56.

The new owners will continue in this tradition, and we are confident the paper will continue to grow, and improve, in the months and years ahead.

We will be giving the new owners a hand in their takeover, and will be pursuing other goals.

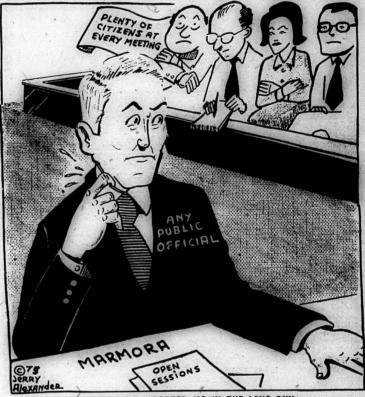

Community service work will be foremost in our planning.

But we intend staying in this area - we like it in God's country, and we enjoy the many warm friendships we've establish ed among customers and friends.

And we're looking forward to working with all of you in the days, months and years ahead.

Again, many thanks to one and all - your co-operation has enabled us to make your newspaper one of the best in the country.

God bless one and all!

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Empey, Madoc, were "at home" to over 100 friends and relatives on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Empey (nee Lillie Pigden) was wed to Hugh J. Empey at the home of her parents, in Madoc Township, now owned by a brother, Russell Pigden. Their only attendant was her sister, Margaret, (Mrs. Frank O'Connor) as flower girl. Mr. and Mrs. Empey were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, flowers, cards and well wishes. Congratulatory messages were received from Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Premier Leslie Frost, the Provincial Secretary, the district parliamentary representatives, Mr. Empey's niece and nephews in British Columbia, and a telegram from nephew, William Empey, of North Hollywood, California.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Holmes, on Livingstone Avenue, was the scene of a very pleasant afternoon and evening, when their daughters, Miss Beverly Holmes, who taught in Orono, and Mrs. Douglas (Joan) Martin, also Mr. Martin, Kingston, tendered them with a surprise luncheon on the occasion of their

The Playfair Bowling Lanes were officially opened before over 120 local bowlers. The opening ceremonies were performed by Reeve Jack Kincaid, who cut a silk ribbon across the alleys and introduced Earl and Bill Armstrong to the large number present. In his remarks Mr. introduced Earl and Bill Armstrong to the large number present. In his remarks Mr. Kincaid complimented the owner on the fine building and alleys which he said were more than a credit to the village. During the evening two lucky number tickets were drawn and Mrs. Warren Hill and Mr. Phillips, being the winners, were each presented with a pair of bowling shoes. The program included a match between a picked team from Tweed and one from Madoc with the visitors winning. The remainder of the evening was spent in

Pretty September wedding unites Mary Alice Hardy, Eric Ross

A pretty September wedding was held Saturday, Sept. 6 in the Marmora Free Methodist Church when Mary Alice, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.A. Hardy, of Marmora, was united in marriage to Eric Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. A. Ross, of Madoc.

of Madoc.
Rev. G.W. Kemp, minister of the Marmora Free Methodist Church, performed the ceremony.
Mrs. Eldon Kemp, of Tweed, played the wedding music. The soloist was Mr. Eldon Kemp.

Mrs. Eldon Kemp, of Iweed, payed the wedding music. The soloist was Mr. Eldon Kemp.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length long sleeved empire style gown of white embossed terrylene with fitted high bodice trimmed in seed pearls. She wore a matching cap, trimmed identically to the dress, which held in place her shoulder length illusion net veil. She carried a bouquet of first love and baby's breath in a straw flower arrangement. The maid of honor, Judy Nobes, of Marmora, wore a matching gown in daffodil yellow with short sleeves and carried a straw flower bouquet in shades of rust and yellow.

Tweed obtains a new lease

The corporation of the village of Tweed has obtained a new lease for a 10-year period on the municipal building.

The building currently houses the polcie department, the ministry of natural resources and the public library.

Deputy-Reeve John Clemens, also chairman of finance and property, said the rental income until now had been $15,000 per year, but following Oct. 1, 1975, when the new lease comes into effect, the rental income will be increased to $44,600 per year. This amount will be guaranteed income for the village.

The ministry of natural resources will be remaining in the village through the 10-year term of the lease.

The current lease has been in effect for the next three.

The current lease has been in effect for the past three years.

The flower girl, niece of the bride, Debbie Hardy, of B.C., wore a floor length gown of yellow floral sheer over taffetta and carried a basket of straw flowers matching the bride's bouquet.

Attending the groom was George Reid, of Belleville. Eldon Hardy, brother of the bride. was the usher.

Wins 5th term

Rollins hopes gov't responds

Clarke T. Rollins is looking forward to serving his fifth consecutive term as the area's representative in the Ontario Legislative Assembly.

The Progressive Conservative incumbent was returned to office by a margin of 2,300 votes in last Thursday's provincial election a majority considerably down from the 4 500 or so votes he won by just four years 4,500 or so votes he won by just four years

A,300 or so votes he won by just four years previous.

Mr. Rollins, talking during victory celebrations at the Tories' main election campaign headquarters in the old Plaza Theatre in Marmora, said he was not taken by surprise when polls changed traditional vote patterns.

wote patterns.

But the election result across the province he found "disappointing."

Nonetheless, a minority government shouldn't make it any more difficult to get shouldn't make it any more difficult to get things done.

"But it would be my hope that our party would pay a little more attention to our private MPPs," he added.

Mr. Rollins polled 10,749 votes. David Hobson of the Liberals came second with 8,396. Bob Thompson, the NDP candidate, garnered 2,900. Nancy Arnold, the Social Credit hopeful, picked up 372.

Credit hopeful, picked up 372.

Mr. Hobson, who showed surprising strength in a number of northern townships in Hastings County - the home territory of Mr. Rollins, and traditionally strong Tory country, was disappointed but still optimistic.

"I am going to offer my services again," he said. "I hope to be the Liberal candidate come the next election, and together with the team of people I had working for me, and the party in this election, finish the job next time."

next time.

"The Conservatives have been running their own ball-game," said Mr. Hobson. "They're not doing that now - with their losses around the province, and they'll have difficulty running in a brand new arena. I think they may have to call an election in frustration."

Thompson, who was awaiting election results at his Desoronto neadquarters, wouldn't project a date for the next election.

But he indicated he could be interested in

But he indicated he could be interested in running again.

"It is going to be extremely interesting. What kind of a marriage would be between (Liberal leader) Robert Nixon and (Premier) Davis."

As for himself and another election, "I'm even to that open to that.

"We ran our campiagn for less than $1,000 and I'm quite proud of what we

Mrs. Arnold, who spent election night monitoring results for the nine other Socreds campaigning around the province, expected the net results of the election will be another election.

She predicted another campaign in 18-20 months, "hecause I don't feel the months 'because I don't feel the Conservatives have a strong enough mandidate to hold out for another four years.

years."
Some 75 per cent of the electorate voted in the new Hastings-Peterborough riding, a better turnout than the provincial average. When the results became known Thursday night, Mr. Hobson left his campaign headquarters in Marmora to cross the main street to Rollins' Conservative headquarters to congratulate the victor.

He stayed to ....t, while some of his workers took back fried chicken being distributed at the Tory celebration to their own committee rooms.

But Mr. Hobson, buoyed by the fact he had increased the Liberal vote substantially in the riding, also looked to the time when he could join combat once again.

Politicians - and governments - come and go but the Politicians — and governments — come and go but the bureaucrats remain.

Sometimes, it's a good thing, too.

Gerry Locking works for the federal department of agriculture. He is probably interested in politics to the point where he likes to know who his next boss is going to be. But he is also a civil servant.

He is not likely to be turfed out of office or out of his job if a change of government occurs at Ottawa. Which is why he was able to lay it on the line to farmers at the semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Pork Producers Marketing Board.

A politician could lose votes for saying some of the things Mr. Locking said.

"He told the pork producers than Ottawa, in any efforts to create a stabilization program for farmers, will not allow what has been termed top-loading by provinces. Top-loading what has been termed top-loading by provinces. Top totaling will simply not be tolerated.

And what is top-loading? It comes about when the federal government announces a system for say, hog producers, where they will be guaranteed a certain amount for production. Then, the provincial governments announce another plan to provide extra subsidies. Farmers, naturally, would take advantage of both programs. Can you blame them?

That is top-loading

That is top-loading.

Ottawa, said Mr. Locking, will definitely not agree to a program of any kind which will give producers in one area of Canada an artificial advantage over producers in another area. It takes some courage to make statements like that and this nation is fortunate to have people in positions of the producers with will be frank.

and this nation is fortunate to have people in positions of formulating policy who will be frank.

In the beef industry, for instance, British Columbia farmers are guaranteed 77 cents a pound for calves. Ontario farmers through the beef calf stabilization program are guaranteed 50 cents a pound. Mr. Locking's statements to pork producers indicate very strongly that the provinces will have to clean up their own backyards before the federal government will come to anybody's rescue.

A misconception has arisen, too, about just what a stabilization program should be. Some agricultural producers think that a stabilization program should guarantee them their entire cost of production plus a neat profit as well. But stabilizing a program should not entail a complete guarantee that every producer in Canada will get a guaranteed annual income.

This writer is in complete agreement with the ability of the stabilization.

This writer is in complete agreement with the philosophy behind government promises to help farmers get some return on their labor and investment. But to support a program which would guarantee full costs goes against my grain.

The key word in the above paragraph is the word help. Help. But not legislation which would give some farmers a licence to rip-off the nation.

It must be the work ethic instilled in me as a child and a teen-ager. I remember working with grandfather "afterfour-and-Saturdays" to earn enough money for a bicycle. Many times I trudged out to hoe potatoes or some other equally distasteful chore when many of my pals were heading to the river for a swim or out to the many sugarbushes in the area for a hike. in the area for a hike

I don't think it did me any harm. In fact, I know a few teen-agers today who would benefit a great deal by getting some mud or manure on their boots.

And I don't think the majority of farmers in this province want a licence to make money by bellying up to public purse. I think most of them would agree to a p a joint program involving both the province and federal government which would help them through the ups-and-downs of the marketplace and give them enough to keep them on the land

As a group, farmers are honest, straightforward and fiercely independent people. All they want is a fair shake. And don't ever forget that they work in the most important basic industry in the world

ENUMERATION

IS UNDER WAY The annual municipal enumeration began on Friday, September 19, 1975 and will continue this week. This municipal enumeration is separate and distinct from the recent provincial enumeration which was conducted for the provincial election. During the week, an enumerator, carrying a proper identification card, will call at your residence for a few minutes to check basic information required in

- the allocation of education property taxes between the public and separate school systems;
- the distribution of provincial grants to local governments to help reduce local tax bills;
- the preparation of jurors' lists; and
- population information needed for other municipal programs.

The enumerator must record such information as the name, age, property status (e.g. owner or tenant), school support and residency of all members of the household.

When the enumerator visits, please check that the information on the Enumeration Notice is correct. If it is not, revise it and verify the

If you are not home, a Notice will be left for you. If changes are necessary, please make them and mail the Enumeration Notice in the self addressed postage prepaid envelope accompanying the Notice. For any additional information, please contact the local assessment office.

We cannot protect our northland!

Ottawa — (SF) — In the bustle of Labor Day weekend, a news item of major importance occurred that received scant attention. As officials from the Departments of External Affairs and Defence began to scurry to get away fro the holiday week-end, a call came in from the RCMP at Resolute Bay.

A Polish research vessel, a motorized schooner, Gedania, had arrived at Resolute, Canada's major base in the Arctic. The ship arrived unannounced and unexpected, having sailed for perhaps a week undetected through Canadian waters.

Poland had asked permission for Gedania to transit the Northwest Passage during a two-and-a-half year oceanographic research cruise around the world, but Canada had said no. She warned the Gedania to stay south and east of a point in Baffin Bay. Resolute Bay is 350 miles west of that point.

At the time, Defence was conducting a secret exercise just west of Resolute so Ottawa was upset when the RCMP inspector of Resolute called to say that this Polish crew had come ashore wanting to buy groceries.

The ship was allowed to buy supplies and ordered to leave Canadian waters, following the wake of an Esso tanker which had been on a resupply mission in the Arctic. There was fairly heavy ice and a snowstorm blowing. Once clear of the ice, the tanker speeded up and left Gedania behind. The Defence Department, assigned to keep in touch with the Polish ship until she cleared Canadian waters, lost her.

The incident points up the vital need for a new and better equipped long-range patrol aircraft, a decision which has been delayed three times by the cabinet. Present aircraft don't have the equipment, and Defence is in such a budgetary grind that the admiral has to check fuel stocks before driving to the office.

The important question, though, is whether or not the Gedania incident throws a cloud on Canadian claims to sovereignty in the Arctic. Can we expect sovereignty claims to be respected when we can't monitor those using our waters and we can't even keep an eye on intruders once we've found them until they leave our territory?

The facts about drinking alcohol are sobering

by David Woods

What'll it be? Something from the bar? One for the road? Same the bar? One for the road? Same again?

Drinking is nearly always preceded by these or other questions. The answer, more often than not, is yes. And that's fine, provided you know when to stop. Unfortunately, many Canadians don't. For them—and for all of us—the broader questions of the increasing amount of alcohol abuse are pretty sobering. How much is too much?

In Ontario, with its drinking population of about 4.5 million, some 328,000 people drink enough alcohol to endanger their health. That's about one drinker in 13. For most people, anything over six ounces of hard liquor daily, or its equivalent in wine (about half a bottle) or beer (six bottles) is considered a hazardous amount.

Those 328,000 buy 40 per cent of all liquor sold in Ontario, and about 145,000 of them are alcoholics.

or all liquor sold in Ontario, and about 145,000 of them are alcoholics.

What does alcohol actually do?

Well, first of all it's a drug that acts quickly on the central nervous system by travelling through the stomach lining and intestines; through the bloodstream to the brain, A small amount is normally enough to relax the muscles and ease tension, which is fine. However, three or four drinks taken quickly can produce flushing, and an increasing heart rate; five or six drinks or more blur vision, alur speech, cause double vision and staggering. While this is going on, the liver is faced with processing or metabolizing the alcohol. Repeated heavy drinking over long periods can damage the liver beyond repair. What's the cost of shool to the individual?

In terms of actual cost in relation to income, alcohol has probably never been cheaper. And Canadians spent $263 million more on it in 1974 than they did in 1972. But it's still money — and the family that buys three 26-0x., or two 40-0x. a week spends $1,000 a year, or $50,000 in an adult lifetime.

But, aside from the staggering financial cost, half of all traffic accidents are alcohol-related, as well as an estimated 42 per cent of all boating fatalities, and 28 per cent of swimming deaths. Moreover, in Ontario, 14 million person hours are lost each year from work because of absenteeism caused by alcohol induced illness.

What about the cost of alcohol to society?

alcohol induced illness.

What about the cost of alcohol to society?

In the health and welfare field, alcohol problems account for 10 per cent of hospital expenditures in ontario ($89 million a year); 15 per cent of mental health services expenditures ($16 million); 20 per cent expenditures under the Family Benefits Act ($8.5 million); and 30 per cent of Children's Aid Society costs ($11.1 million). All of this adds up to some $125 million a year for Ontario alone, and does not include the services of individual physicians in treating alcohol problems.

Next time somebody saks, Next time somebody saks, Next time somebody saks, problems.

Next time somebody asks,

"What'll it be?" — think twice.

And before you answer that little question, think of the answers to the big questions about drinking.

I'd love to go back

By BILL SMILEY

JUST a few more notes on my trip to Saskatchewan. If you are bored, turn to the classified ads.

That's not just a wise-crack. A western publisher who runs my column, said: "You're right up there with the classifieds, when it comes to readers."

"Thanks a lot," I muttered rather dourly. Turns out it was a compliment. The classified ads are the best-read part of many weeklies. Anyway, perhaps the nicest thing I can say about Saskatchewan is that I'd love to go back, 30 years younger, and with two or three months to spend.

After I got home, I discovered I have a horde of cousins in Saskatcon, and they're going to be sore as hell when they learn I was there for a few days and didn't call them.

But that's my problem, and maybe I'll see some of them at the great Thomson family reunion at the "old homestead" on Calumet Island in the middle of the Ottawa River next month.

It's easier to get from here to England than it is to get from here to Calumet Island but I'm going to bust a gut trying to make it. My grand-father was slidemaster there in the state of the same of the sa father was slidemaster there in the great days of lumbering on the Ottawa, and most of my western kinfolk sprang, originally, from his stalwart loins.

Speaking of loins, I didn't see any in Saskatchewan.
But I did see a bald-headed eagle, as well as a few baldheaded editors.

Either it was a bald eagle, or a dirty great crow who had just had his hair dyed blonde.
As far as I'm concerned, it

just had his hair dyed blonde.
As far as I'm concerned, it was an eagle, just as that pike I caught not weighs just under 16 pounds.
And those western crows!
I spotted a vast black bird skimming through the spruce. "What in the name of dear Heaven is that?" I enquired. "Crow," muttered our laconic guide, Ovide, rather contemptuously.
Later I learned that these "crows," which look about the size of a Canada goose, are really ravens, about three times the size of a common, or eastern crow.
I also heard some wolves,

but they turned out to be young Indians, and the wolf calls were directed at pretty young Indians of the opposite sex.

Ovide, the guide, didn't, I am sure, realize that he was named after a famous Roman poet of erotic verse, but he had some of the characteristics. "Caught a real big fish last night," he averred, last night, he averred, straight-faced, outlining with his hands the shape of the fish, which was more of a bird than a fish, to my thinking.

Let's see, what other great adventures did I have? Oh, yes. I met a prairie farmer, in his seventies, who was up for the fishing. German background, solid type, figured to be a gentle man, and he had the most appalling string of profanity I've heard sinc I left the air force.

I've heard since I left the air force.

Did you ever see a law student try to change a flat tire on a big bus? Nice lad. Had been in the Mounties, couldn't stand the crap of the upper echelons, who are still in the Victorian age, had quit, was going through law school, and then was going back into the Mounties, to try to do something about it. Stout chap and I hope he makes it. But he sure had a battle with that tire, while we stood on the road and watched the perfect Vs of geese starting their long trek south.

Away up there in the

Away up there in the northern wilds, where the call of loons and the snort of a call of loons and the snort of a moose are to be expected, I was startled. Went to a lodge with the rest of the gang and wound up playing shuffleboard and shooting pool with a great fire in the fireplace. I felt sort of disconnected.

It ain't cheap up there.
Brought a rate card home with me. A modern cabin runs $120 a week. Boat, about $50 a week. Motor, about $50 a week. Motor, about $60 a week. Plus gas, bait, fish filleting, fish freezing, and food. A fishing guide is about $20 a day, but worth it. I had all this for zilch money, thanks to the government of Sask. and my good hosts, the Martins.

But on the other hand, it's not really expensive, if shared by a group. That cabin held eight people, or could have, and was com-pletely furnished and heated. A crumby cottage in Ontario, on an over-crowded beach, with no fishing, could cost as

Back to Saskatoon after a 10-hour bus-ride, and everybody exhausted. Some of those crazy, intrepid westerners took off for home. "Oh, it's only 280 miles."

Got wangled into a lobster dinner, when all I wanted was bed and a warm glass of milk. Ordering lobster in Saskatoon is like going to Halifax and saying: "Bring me a big western steak."

Halifax and saying: "Bring me a big western steak." Stupid.

Missed my flight home. Called the old Trouble 'n Strife, who was expecting me that night, 1,200 miles away. Cost me $13. Woke up in the morning with a heavy chest cold and a feverish feeling that I'd been off to another planet for a week.

But I wouldn't have missed it for the world. It's not every day you see a baldheaded eagle.

Provincial ELECTION - '75

scene out of Mudville

By Don Fredericks Sun Syndicate

It was like a scene out of Mudville.
For the first time in 32 years, the mighty Tories had just struck out, mainly because they were so busy fighting the Liberals that they forgot the NDP had a team in the game. It's the first minority government in Ontario since George Drew beat Bob Nixop's father Harry in 1942

Nixon's father, Harry, in 1943.

And while the six-week campaign featured a bitter feud between the two heavyweight contenders, the Liberals and Tories, with the Liberals leading the public opinion polls all the way, nobody seemed to notice NDP leader Stephen Lewis and his masterful, issue-oriented campaign and as a result they allowed campaign and as a result they allowed him to sneak up the middle to become official leader of the Opposition. Obviously, the NDP emphasis on housing and rent control struck home in Toronto, allowing that party to practically sweep much of the east and west ends.

As for Nixon who has led his party since 1967 through three elections. it could

As for Nixon who has led his party since 1967 through three elections, it could certainly be the beginning of the end of his leadership, even though that party picked up more seats than it has held since Mitch Hepburn was premien in the 1930s.

The fact is the Liberals are now in third place and it is not likely Nixon will be able to command support of his caucus for long.

Several leading Conservatives admitted privately they seriously miscalculated by hammering steadily at the Liberals and ignoring the NDP. They felt many voters were probably turned off both Davis and Nixon by the constant mud-slinging and even Lewis expressed surprise at the results and said that his pre-election prediction was 58 Liberals, 49 PCs and only 18 New Democrats.

Davis, of course, continues to be premier at least until he's defeated by a vote in the Legislature and while no one expects either Lewis or Nixon to agree to any kind of formal alliance with the Tories it's not likely anybody will want to take the province through another election at least for another year.

Lewis' father, David, faced a somewhat Lewis' father, David, faced a somewhat similar dilemma after the 1972 federal election, except he was leader of the third party. He held on to the balance of power for 18 months and when the election finally did come, he not only lost his own seat but the party suffered heavy losses as well. No doubt Stephen will keep that in mind. In Toronto the polls had indicated the Liberals would do well, and in some ridings they did, but that only served to take away Conservative votes and help the NDP come up the middle.

The mood in the Davis headquarters was The mood in the bayest shock of all came with the announcement that the Liberals had won all three London seats, long the bastion of Conservative support, home of former Premier John Robarts and except for London Centre considered safe Tory

The first order of business for Davis will be to form a new cabinet, particularly since five former ministers didn't run this time and three, Dick Beckett and John beaten. Clement, the torney-general, and one of Davis' most able ministers, was the toughest blow to

What we're likely to get for the next year is a Conservative government with strong NDP leanings and there appears little doubt that rent controls, probably opposed by many Conservatives, will be among the first orders of business when the Legislature resumes next month.

In his quiet, sober speech to his supporters at the Bramalea City Centre, Davis thanked his workers and congrat-ulated Lewis for a clean campaign, but didn't once mention Nixon, a man who neither he nor Lewis likes.

It's unlikely the personal feud that developed between Davis and Nixon will be patched up soon and it's equally sure that the bad feelings between Davis and the federal Liberals will disappear. Obviously, Lewis is the power broker. For the last four years he has practically carried the opposition single-handedly anyway and that he has the position anyway, Davis will be forced to walk a thin line between satisfying what is left of thin line between satisfying what is left of his traditional Conservative supporters, particularly those in Eastern Ontario, who, for the most part stayed with him and the NDP which could turf him out if he doesn't give them 'the kind of social legislation they'll be demanding.

Davis repeated his call for stability in a economic difficulty and said he expected Lewis to carry on in the constructive fashion that he fought his campaign.

He said he had no regrets although his face belied it and he said he expected to carry on with a minority in the same fashion he has governed the past four

About the best Davis can hope for is to

I was shocked to read that Ethel Merman's daughter-in-law was murdered recently. Didn't the entertainer have a similar tragedy a few years ago? Diane Larson, Meterie,

Yes. The singer's daughter committed suicide. Ms. Merman has not had a happy personal life and hopes to return to Broadway soon in an effort to forget it. Is it true that Raquel Welch, who is suddenly on a Women's Lib kick, wanted the Screen Actors Guild to change their name to Screen People's Guild? T. Hopkins, Galveston, Tex.

Someone jokingly suggested it to Raquel, but the smart actress pointed out that the dictionary definition for actor is "a person who acts" and makes no reference to sex.

Could you please tell me where I can write Mark Shera of "SWAT?" J. Allison, Butte, Mont.

For all readers asking where to write their favorites, please send letters to the networks that carry the series or the production companies that make them. The credits given before or at the end of the show will give you the info. The name, plus the address, Hollywood, Calif. is sufficient, even if the show is filmed in Los Angeles, Burbank, etc. For you, Ms. Allison, the SWAT address is 20th Century-Fox, P.O. Box 900, Beverly Hills, 90213.

BY CATHY POST FIELD

I read recently that a Bob Merrill is doing the screenplay for the Errol Flynn btopic. Is he kin to the songwriter by that name? T. Kilm, Brooklyn, N.Y. It is the same Bob Merrill. He did the lyrics for "Funny Girl," also wrote "Honeycomb", "How Much is That Doggie in the Window," etc. before switching from tunesmith to writer.

Keep left centre of lane says expert motorcyclist

By KENNY ROBERTS Yamaha Team Captain 1973-74 AMA Grand National Champion

Grand National Champion
Motorcycle riding is just about the most exhilarating form of transportation available today. And in these times of fluctuating fuel supplies and ever higher prices, it certainly is the most economical form of motoring.

Yet, when I see some of the personal equipment worn by motorcyclists riding along the highways and expressways of the nation and some of their maneuvers, it positively terrifies me.

You may think that is a peculiar statement coming from a guy who, on two wheels, has been clocked through the traps of Daytona (Fla.) International Speedway at just over 190 miles an hour in tests for Yamaha.

I want that helmet, the best available and a lot more.

Also, I want that light

Also, I want that light Also, I want that light turned on because of the visibility factor, even at high noon on the brightest of days. You'd be surprised how often its beam is the only thing that will capture the attention of a motorist ahead, letting him know you are there.

As a personal equip-him know you are there.

As to personal equipment, here are the things that I strongly recommend if you are going to ride the highways and streets.

1. A top-quality helmet, of course, preferably of the full-face variety and with a strong shield. Sunglasses or the skin on your forchead aren't going to protect you from that stone or metal bolt that may be kicked square in-may be kicked square into your face by the tire from the car in front.

2. Heavy shoes or boots to offer proper foot and ankle protection for any eventuality you may encounter. These could be of the lace-up or buckle type used in motocross or trials riding. They have been perfected for motorcycling safety. (I shudder to recall it but do you know, I once saw a guy riding our freeway in sandals?)

3. Strong, supple gloves that afford protection to the hands, yet enable you to operate with the necessary freedom of your controls.

4. Heavy pants and a deceled.

sary freedom of your controls.

4. Heavy pants and a durable jacket of some sortathat will protect the legs and arms from those things that may be kicked up by the car in front.
Your basic rules for riding are the same as they are for driving an automobile, with some minor adjustments to give you an even better cushion in the matter of safety.

An example of the latter: on a well-traveled thoroughfare, always stay

a little bit to the left of center in your lane. That keeps you out of that slick created in the middle of the lane that has been caused by oil dripping from countless cars.

It also offers the best visibility from a "defensive" standpoint. That motorist in front of you has his rear view mirror cocked more to the left than to dead center or the right.

his rear view mirror cocked more to the left than to dead center or the right. He also is required to have a side mirror on the left side of the car. Seldom does he have one on the right. Thus, your visibility factor is better to the left of center of your lane.

And by that I don't mean straddling the lane. That is one of the most violated rules to be seen in rush-hour congestion on the freeways and expressways in and around any large city.

That kind of riding is foolhardy. Motorists switching lanes are not always aware of a motorcyclist buzzing through between lanes. He has those blind spots built into his car. He also probably can't hear you because his radio is playing and, in most cases, his windows are closed.

There also is another spect here. Usually, the texture of that divider strip on the highway is slick . . . just as slick as oil. It is only common courtesy to stay in your lane, strip on the highway is slick ... just as slick as oil. It is only common courtesy to stay in your lane, stopping when the cars in front of you stop.

Naturally, the mechanical performance of your motorcycle also is a vital part of the picture. It needs periodic service and tuning, just as a car does.

The sun that Brief December Day
Rose cheerless over hills of gray;
Amid the coldness and the snow
My car was stuck, it would not go.
And as I cursed the warmthless sun
I thought of things I should have done.
If I had had my engine tuned
I might not be here lost, marooned.
What's more, if I had fixed my lights
These winter days would not seem nights.
And had my tires been up to snuff
I wouldn't skid through slush and stuff.
And how I wish that I had checked
My cooling system, now it's wrecked:
And wipers so that I could see
The other cars ahead of me.
But Lwas pressing on my luck,
So now I sit here, cold and stuck.
The wisest words, my friends, I trow,
Are "Move it, buster, do it now."

Here's how to keep car off won't start list

What needs checking before cold weather arrives summarized in list below

Short of a heated garage, there's no better insurance that your car will start on a frigid morning than a properly serviced engine.

Since warm garages are at a premium, the best way to avoid a frustrating wait for a tow truck is to get your car in proper shape before cold weather sets in. The service needed is far less expensive than heating that

Most cars with starting troubles begin winter with worn spark plugs and defective ignition systems. The incidence of hard-starting complaints reported by car owners climbs in direct proportion to the number of miles the plugs have been in service.

To make sure your car doesn't show up on the list of "won't starts" this winter, here's a check list of the items which should be inspected on your car before the weather turns cold:

Have these checks made ...

1. Battery . . . Have your service man check the battery with a hydrometer to determine the specific gravity readings are low, have the battery recharged and make sure he determines the reason for the low readings. If battery condition appears doubtful have the mechanic test it for weak cells. Also, he sure he removes all corrosion from the battery terminals and lubricates them so the coerosion won't reoccur. Remember corroded cables and terminals restrict the flow of electricity through the entire system, and can actually prevent the car from starting if allowed out-of-adjustment regulator may not allow the hattery to charge enough, or may result in overcharging which will eventually rain the battery.

3. Starter and generator . . . Chances are if your car is only a year or two old, these components will be okay. However, make sure your service man removes any corrosion that might exist on either starter or generator connections — and that they are all securely fastened. If your car is over two years old better have the generator brushes and commutator looked at.
Badly worn brushes reduce the generator efficiency and can result in a constantly weak battery.

4. Distributor . . . If your car has been driven more than 10,000 miles

ENGINE COOLANT antifreeze has ceased being a loss-leader item in most automotive supply houses. Therefore, to save money when installing a fresh supply, the prudent car owner wants to make certain he puts in enough to protect from freezing or overheating but no more than he absolutely needs. The producers of DowGard have prepared the above chart to guide car owners on proper amounts of the coolant antifreeze for the capacity of his car's cooling system.

since the distributor has been serviced you'll probably save yourself a lot of trouble by having the mechanic install new points, condenser (in engines that use them) and making whatever adjustments are necessary. Improperly operating distributors are a major cause of starting difficulty.

5. Coil ... Again, if of starting difficulty.

5. Coil . . . Again, if your car is reasonably new, chances are you won't have to worry about coil condition. However, better keep in mind that a weak coil can not only cause starting failure but also contribute to poor performance in general and reduced gasoline economy. If your car has over 20,000 miles on the odomcoil condition.

6. Spark plugs . . . If the plugs are nearing the 10,000-mile mark, they should be replaced before the weather turns cold as worn out plugs are probably the biggest single factor in hard starting.

factor in hard starting.

It is also a good idea to have your mechanic check the engine with a timing light. Out of time engines not only are much harder to start but lose much of the efficiency and performance they were intended to deliver.

Everything but your gloves

To solve the "it's never there when you need it" problem, here's a list of items every motorist should keep in his glove compartment.

A flashlight, first aid kit, white cloth to use for emergency signalling, paper towel, "soap-and-tow-el" packets.

Also, coins taped inside the door for an emergency phone call in case of car trouble.

Cleaner car engines produce less atmospheric pollution

What goes up must come down. A decade ago, it seemed like the nation's air pollution problems would defy that axiom. Governmental action and achievement by automotive designers have reduced air pollution considerably. So, the car is an ever-decreasing factor in the total air quality problem.

Reports from the Environmental Protection Agency and the California Air Resources Board are but two indications that cars are running cleaner.

EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said, "Our monitoring stations are beginning to show air pollution reductions that are related to our regulatory work over the past four years, especially in the areas of particulate, sulfur oxides and carbon monoxide control."

Emissions most directly related to the automobile, earbon monoxide, have declined on a nationwide basis, the EPA reports. High pollution areas including Los Angeles, San Francisco, the states of New Jersey and Washington have all documented CO declines. This improvement has been credited by the EPA to emission control devices on a growing percentage of cars.

Wouldn't skid you

To the motorist who lives in cold, snowy winter weather, getting a car out of a skid is hardly more than a routine annoyance. However, motorists used to driving on normally dry pavements can run into problems should they be traveling in frigid areas or be confronted by a freak snow storm at home.

Therefore, the Rubber Association of Canada shares its experience in safe driving on bad roads. With the reminder that stopping on a wet road can take four times the normal distance as on a dry road, the car is straightening out, pump the brakes gently to slow down.

The association offers these tire care tips to help avoid trouble: Keep the tires inflated properly. Unequal pressure in the front tires promotes instability on bad roads.

Another important reason to check tires frequently in cold weather is that tire pressure drops approximately one pound for every 10° drop in temperature.

Electronic ignition systems maintenance

Electronic ignition systems, standard equipment on most late model cars, were designed to help keep emissions low. But they still require periodic maintenance, according to Champion Spark Plug Company Company.

Largely due to requirements stemming from emissions control, the car makers began using the electronic ignition systems to provide more voltage to fire a wider-gapped spark plug.

The new systems eliminate breaker points and condensers and replace them with magnetic components that trigger the system for secondary voltage. However, many of the components of the electronic system are the same as in conventional igni-tions and maintenance requirements are not too dissimilar, Champion says. The condition of the coil, distributor cap and rotor must still be checked. Correct timing is critical to proper operation. Spark plugs are still subject to fouling from contaminent present in the combustion process such as carbon, calcium, barium, etc. And ignition wir ing can still deteriorate or suffer damage, causing surier damage, causing misfire.

Therefore, an annual ignition system service is still recommended by Champion, electronic system or not.

our highways.

According to a recent survey, more than half of the cars in operation today have in excess of 50,500 miles on their odometers. While the supposition could be that difficult economic times have caused people to hold on to cars longer, the survey shows the trend to higher mileage cars has been a steady one.

In 1968 only 43 per cent

In 1968 only 43 per cent of the cars registered more than 50,500 miles. The atest study shows 51 per cent of all cars have exceeded that mileage.

The significance of the figures lies primarily in a need for more maintenance on the part of the motorists. By the time a car has been operated more than 50,500 miles, the following major services should be performed:

Cooling system compo-

Cooling system component replacement and repair; major engine tuneup; exhaust system replacement; new shocks installed; major brake service; replace tires; install new battery; plus other services as needed.
